

Airspace Conflict Possibility Argued At FAA Meeting

Port Development Opponent Sees 'Incompatibility' at Other Fields

KANSAS CITY — Whether or not an instrument landing system (ILS) flight pattern over the proposed new Outagamie County Airport would conflict with other area ports triggered additional testimony Wednesday before a regional Federal Aviation Agency meeting here.

T. K. Jordan, Wisconsin Aeronautics director, told the FAA long range plans for the proposed port were not compatible with planned airspace use at Green Bay and Oshkosh unless flights were limited to visual traffic only.

Jordan, who Outagamie authorities feel has been a long-time foe of airport development at Appleton, presented his views in a letter to the FAA. His stand evidently was a personal one, since a formal state Aeronautics Commission stand was not included in the letter.

Moving Airport
Mark Catlin, Appleton, who headed the Outagamie delegation, said two years ago a state commission study concluded that ILS operations were possible at the Outagamie County port. "Our principle reason for being here is not to be hampered in developing a much-needed airport. The agency should remember this is not new airspace but the moving of an in-the-way airport," Catlin argued.

J. L. Donoghue, consulting engineer for Outagamie County, said the overlap of ILS airspace with Green Bay was negligible. He said runways at the proposed port were so arranged that the overlap would satisfy every possible requirement.

The informal airspace meeting was supposed to have been limited to airspace questions by E. G. Basel, FAA regional chief of airspace utilization, who noted it would be impossible to keep area economic factors out of the discussion and that these would influence the airspace decision. The session, largely, was devoted to hearing arguments against the Outagamie port.

Jordan's Stand
Regarding Outagamie County's plans for airport development, Jordan wrote the FAA: "The subject proposal, from an airspace utilization standpoint, is not acceptable, as the proposal would conflict with planned airspace use for the Austin Straubel and Winnebago County Airports. An ILS has already been installed at Austin Straubel and an ILS is programmed for the Winnebago County airport for March, 1963."

Karl P. Baldwin, of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce Airport Committee, emphasized that 60 per cent of the passengers leaving from the Oshkosh Airport came from Appleton, Neenah and Menasha and that a better airport location must be found for those passengers. Less than 5 per cent of Straubel field's passengers come from those cities, he declared.

A. W. Compton, an air traffic consultant for Outagamie County, said an analysis of 1959 Fox Valley Airline passengers showed that 34.3 per cent came from Appleton, Neenah and Menasha, 37 per cent from Green Bay, 9.1 per cent from Oshkosh and 18.9 per cent from fringe areas. An updating of these figures, Compton said, shows that Appleton and Neenah-Menasha are increasing, Green Bay is remaining about the same and the other areas are "drifting downward."

Rehash of Past
"An airport should be concerned with the mass of its potential even in the case of a regional airport," he declared.

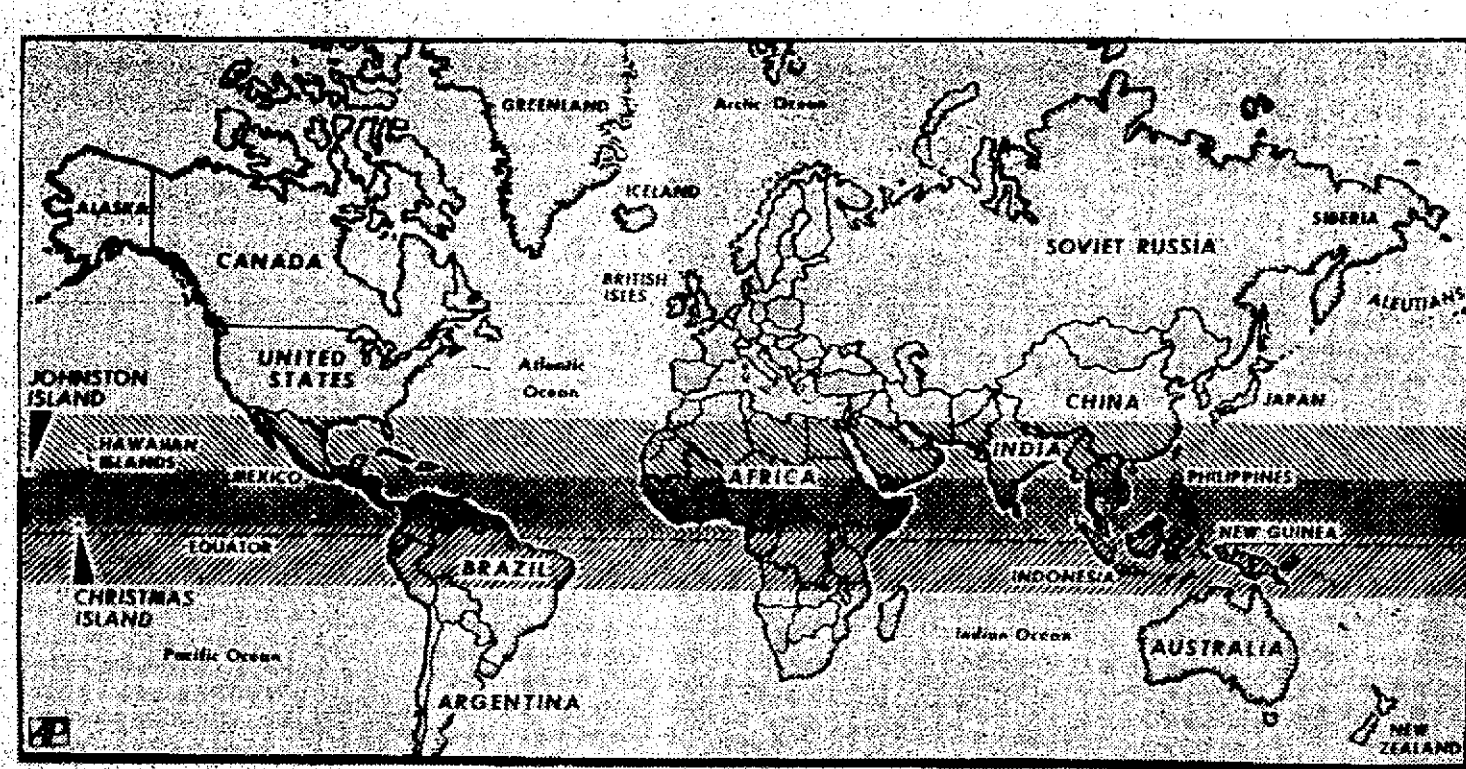

The meeting developed into a rehash of Fox Valley growing pains and of the failure of Winnebago and Outagamie Counties to agree on a joint airport. There appeared to be a loose federation of Brown and Winnebago Counties with Jordan against the Outagamie County plans.

It has been noted frequently at airport meetings in Appleton that opposition to a new port here could be expected inasmuch as all surveys indicate both Green Bay and Winnebago airports stand to lose considerable business almost immediately after the new Outagamie port swings into business.

T. C. Widder Jr., of the Oshkosh Citizens Airport Committee, said the Winnebago County decision against a joint airport was based on conclusions that airports at either end of the Fox Valley were best and that moving the

West Sees Necessity for Tests but Communists Denounce Them Bitterly

U. S., Britain Send Up Satellite Jointly From Cape Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Thor-Delta rocket thundered skyward today in an effort to launch the world's first international satellite—a joint effort of the United States and Great Britain.

The sleek, 90-foot projectile blasted aloft at 1:01 p.m. EST. Its mission was to propel the 132-pound scientific satellite into an orbit ranging from 200 to 600 miles above the earth to gather data on the ionosphere and cosmic radiation.

The early portion of flight appeared normal as the three-stage rocket rose smoothly into a partly cloudy sky, arched quickly toward the north-east, and sped from sight.

Mystery Satellite Sent Up at California Base

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force launched a mystery satellite from this West Coast missile base before dawn today.

Officials declined to give any details beyond the fact that the satellite employed a Blue Scout booster combination.

Anti-Test Demonstrations Staged in Tokyo and London

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
America's resumption of nuclear tests in the air brought three small demonstrations in foreign countries, thousands of expressions of dismay, indignation, concern, tolerant understanding from friends, bitter denunciation from the Communists.

Mixed with fear was the underlying but faint hope that an all-out nuclear race between the United States and the Soviet Union still might be averted before it gets out of hand.

The noisiest demonstration was in Tokyo, where 325 leftist students, Communists, Socialists and members of the Japan Anti-Bomb Council shouted before the U.S. Embassy and tried to enter the embassy compound. Japanese police drove them off, but the leftists have promised to demonstrate every day during the test series.

In London, 14 Americans—most of them students in England—marched up and down all night before the U.S. Embassy with anti-nuclear placards.

Protest Meeting
A mass meeting was planned for tonight by the British anti-nuclear organizations.

About 50 ban-the-bomb demonstrators sat on the sidewalk outside the U.S. Embassy in Copenhagen.

A Soviet commentator charged President Kennedy's statement last March that he did not want tests had been shown up as "the biggest lie of all the false assurances made by anyone in the West."

"With the explosion at Christmas Island, a new round in the nuclear arms race has been started," the commentator said. "No propaganda maneuvers will help Washington erase the fact

Load of Smelt Taken

CHILTON — A group of weary Chilton Boy Scouts and adult Scouters were taught a bitter lesson in "unsportsmanship" Tuesday night.

The group toiled for hours in Lake Michigan's icy waters off Manitowish County netting smelt for a smelt fry they will sponsor only to have the fruits of their labor stolen when they waded back out in the waters for a final haul.

Ten Scouts, Scoutmasters Dan Albedyll, who is a policeman, and Robin Linenfelder, Conservation Warden Kieth Reichenbach, and Explorer Adviser Leo Heinie, were the lowly deed's victims.

The Scouts were attempting to net enough smelt for a public smelt fry scheduled for Friday evening at St. Mary Church Hall. The proceeds were to be used for troop camping this summer.

Not Running
Albedyll said the smelt were not running and that the group toiled for almost three hours to gather about 75 pounds of the small fish. Exhausted and chilled, they came to shore and placed the fish in a tank mounted on a trailer.

They then returned to the lake to make one final attempt at netting. As before, it produced only a small haul and when they returned to the cars, all the fish taken earlier were stolen.

The fry will go on as scheduled, but now the Scouts will have to buy the fish they will serve.

NASA Hails Success in Spite of Electronic System Failure on Ranger 4

GOLDSTONE, Calif. (AP) — The crippled U.S. spacecraft Ranger 4 crash-landed on the far side of the moon today and a space official called the feat another of the "long strides in space we have made in the past year."

James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told newsmen Ranger 4 was "much more complex than anything the Russians have attempted."

Dr. William Pickering, director of NASA's jet propulsion laboratory which built Ranger 4, said that despite the failure of a key electronic system in the spacecraft the fact that it hit the moon "gives us confidence we can send instruments to the moon with the accuracy needed."

He said another Ranger equipped like this one to take close-up television pictures of the moon's surface will be launched by the end of the year.

First in 7 Attempts
Ranger 4 was this country's first success in seven attempts to land a piece of hardware on the moon, and virtually duplicated Russia's accomplishment when Lunik II hit the moon Sept. 12, 1959.

Although there was no way of seeing the actual impact, scientists said Ranger 4's trajectory before passing behind the moon assured that it would land in the predicted area.

The 780-pound vehicle, launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Monday, made the 231,486-mile journey to the moon in 64 hours.

It passed the sunlit left half of the moon at an altitude of about 900 miles, aimed at a spot one-fourth of the way around on the back side.

Track Radio Beacon
Scientists calculated its speed at impact at 5,963 miles an hour. Electronic failures kept Ranger 4 from completing most of its missions. It carried several scientific instruments, including a television camera to take close-up pictures of the moon's surface. But a timer

Uncle Sam Wants $2,001.48 Clerk's Mistake Brings Troubles For Small Wheat Farmer in Texas

BY JAMES MCCARTNEY
Chicago Daily News Service
WASHINGTON — Let us shed a tear for fellow-taxpayer James N. Norman of Memphis, Texas — a hapless man-in-the-middle in the senate's "gentleman's filibuster" over a literacy test-civil rights bill.

His Troubles Grow
Norman, an obscure wheat farmer, has been having troubles with the federal government for more than three years that originally grew out of a clerical mistake in a government office.

As a result of the mistake he has been on the receiving end of a federal lawsuit, has been served with summonses and has had all manner of difficulty.

His problem involved only $2,001.48 — in a "government" used to dealing in billions, but it was important to him.

He had every reason to believe that his problem would be solved this week with the passage of a bill in the senate.

Then, suddenly, the Kennedy administration, quite by happenstance, chose to replace his bill with its own bill to ban "unreasonable" literacy tests for voters — a bill much wanted by Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

Norman, overnight, became an unwitting pawn in one of the recurring struggles between North and South in the U.S. Senate over civil rights legislation.

The story goes back to 1952 when Norman — as a result of the clerk's mistake — was permitted to buy federally supported crop insurance on his wheat.

Specifically, a clerk mistook the number 16 for 26 on a document — and it made all the difference in the world.

Norman wasn't actually entitled to the crop insurance, but the clerk's mistake led the government to tell him that he was.

Federal Suit Filed
So over the next five years he suffered crop damages — and collected a series of small sums in federally supported insurance.

One year he collected $267. Another year it was $322. All the time, each year, he was paying insurance premiums of around $30 to $100.

Anyway, in 1959 the government discovered its mistake.

Norman was informed summarily that he owed the government $2,001.48 — and that he had better pay up.

Norman didn't have $2,001.48 jingling in his pocket.

The Justice Department filed a suit against him in federal court.

Norman finally went to his congressman, Rep. Walter E. Rogers (D-Tex.), who sympathized and introduced a bill in the house in 1960 under which the $1,001.48 would be written off.

Nothing happened in 1960. In 1961, however, the bill cleared the house, but the senate never got around to it.

A few weeks ago it was cleared.

School Spending in State Sets Record

Voters in State Communities Approve Nearly $48 Million For Educational Facilities

MADISON (AP)—Voters of Wisconsin communities — large and small — have agreed to spend $47,795,000 for new schools.

Except for Milwaukee and Madison, where the largest amounts have been approved, construction work is expected to be completed in time for fall terms.

The outlay was approved in referendums this spring, and according to the State Department of Public Instruction officials, reflects the awareness of state residents to the need for expanded educational facilities.

Russia Blamed For Current U. S. Testing

Adlai Calls New Series a Result Of Soviet Policy

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS SERVICE

UNITED NATIONS — U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson has reminded world diplomats here that the Russians set up the current American series of nuclear tests.

Stevenson termed the new series "the melancholy consequence of the Soviet Union's insistence on pursuing the nuclear arms race."

Most delegates here echoed positions of last November when the U. N. Assembly voted 71 to 20 for an unpolished halt to testing and 71 to 11 for a test ban treaty as proposed by the United States and Britain.

The Soviet Bloc voted against both proposals. The United States and its major allies voted for the treaty but against the unpolished test ban.

Door Still Open

Stevenson pointed out Wednesday that President Kennedy has left the door open to call off the current American test series even now, if the Russians will agree to an impartially enforced treaty.

Pressing Moscow to take this step would be every U. N. member's objective, he said.

"The implications of an intensified competition in nuclear weaponry are obvious and grim," Stevenson said. "But the record demonstrates that this contest was initiated by the Russians and that they will not consider any safeguard arrangements to halt it."

The Soviets broke a three-year moratorium on testing last fall with a series of blasts culminating in a 55-megaton super-bomb that exploded in the face of a United Nations plea to cancel this particular test.

No National Truck Strike, Say Teamsters

One Contract Won't Cover All Drivers Belonging to Union

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS SERVICE

CHICAGO — Would a national contract give the Teamsters Union power to strike the nation's whole trucking industry at once?

A top Teamsters official insisted here today that such a strike would not happen.

"If there was a strike of drivers covered by the contract, three trucks would be operating for every one halted by the strike," said Harold Gibbons, national vice president.

Not All Covered

Gibbons, executive assistant to Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, added, "A lot of our own Teamster members would not be covered by the national contract."

"Milk wagon drivers, meat truck drivers, ice men and furniture movers would not be covered. Also excluded would be truck drivers in such special fields as cement, steel and frozen foods."

"These drivers would not be included because they have special working conditions that must be written into their contracts."

"It would be difficult to put them into a national contract," Gibbons said.

Termination Date

The national contract would have a single termination date and would be negotiated with representatives of trucking associations from coast to coast, he said.

It would cover long haul drivers, those used in city pickup and delivery, and dock workers.

The national contract proposal was made by Hoffa Wednesday at a meeting of the Teamsters' executive board here. It was approved by the board.

Gibbons said the Teamsters' goal is to have the master contract become effective Feb. 1, 1964.

Honeymoon Ends In Tragedy, Four Parents Unaware

TORONTO (AP)—Two Canadian couples were touring the eastern United States today, unaware that their children's brief marriage had ended in tragedy.

Annette Battaglia, 19, and Joseph Longo, 21, were married in Toronto Monday and left for a honeymoon motor trip.

After the wedding festivities, Annette's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Battaglia, left by car for a vacation in Washington, D. C.

Joseph's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Longo, took a bus for Virginia Beach, Va., to spend a holiday at the seashore.

Spring Comes to Columbia, Students Raid Girls' Campus

NEW YORK (AP)—Two thousand Columbia University male undergraduates raided the campus of Barnard College, Columbia's female branch, early today. They were quickly repulsed.

"It's just spring," said a university official.

The students assembled along the broad walkway that traverses the campus. They were clad mostly in Bermuda shorts and crew neck sweaters. Some threw firecrackers and chanted slogans.

Traffic Blocked

Shortly after midnight they surged across Upper Broadway to the Barnard campus, blocking Broadway traffic for 15 minutes. Some got into the high-walled buildings, but none entered the buildings.

Girl undergraduates, in nightclothes, hung from the windows of Barnard dormitories.

A police sergeant, who happened to pass in a radio car, summoned a squad of eight patrolmen and the male students were quickly herded from the Barnard campus.

Other Opportunities

The students then surged to the east side of the campus, toward Johnson Hall, the graduate women's dormitory.

Police circled the campus in radio cars and stopped the crowd. About 1,000 students made another try in the direction of Barnard, but lost interest when they heard police summon fire trucks.

"The hoses will discourage them if nothing else will," the sergeant said.

Kennedy's Easter Rest Nearing End Preparations Made For Weekend Talks With Macmillan

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy, his Easter holiday drawing to a close, prepared today for his weekend meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and gets fresh reports on the first volley in the new U. S. nuclear test series.

Kennedy was cruising aboard the Honey Fitz Wednesday afternoon when he received word that test No. 1 had been fired at dawn over the Pacific near Christmas Island. But he issued no statement.

He has stayed in the background after giving final authorization Tuesday for the tests in the atmosphere to commence.

First Explosion

The first explosion followed his go-ahead by only hours. He was informed Tuesday night that the tests would get under way Wednesday unless weather interfered.

Kennedy also got word his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, 73, has recovered sufficiently from his stroke that he can begin a course of treatment at a New York rehabilitation center.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said the elder Kennedy was expected to go to New York within a few days to begin a program of therapy to improve his speech and the movement of his limbs impaired by the stroke he suffered Dec. 19.

Mentally Alert

Salinger said the former ambassador's speech had begun to return but did not say to what extent. He also said that the elder Kennedy "is mentally alert and there is beginning to be improvement in the paralyzed right side."

The President's father will be taken to the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at Bellevue Hospital in New York.

The decision was made after consultation here of three doctors — Dr. Howard Rusk, head of the institute, and Dr. Marco Johannsen of Palm Beach, who has been attending the elder Kennedy.

Apollo Launching in 1964 Saturn Rocket Plans Right on Schedule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The great Saturn rocket is on schedule on a timetable to boost the three-man Apollo spaceship into orbit in late 1964—an important step toward placing the craft on the moon in this decade.

That was the status report given by Dr. Wernher von Braun Wednesday after the second straight successful test-firing of the huge eight-engine booster.

Pouring 13 million pounds of thrust from the first-stage power plant, the 162-foot Saturn roared into a clear sky in an awesome display of flame and noise. The engines, spewing a 300-foot tail of fire, burned out as intended 115 seconds after launching, at an altitude of 35 miles, in what one National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman termed a 100 per cent successful performance.

The vehicle coasted upward to an altitude of 65 miles and there was destroyed deliberately by an electronic signal beamed from Cape Canaveral.

As the Saturn ripped apart, 95 tons of water carried for ballast in two dummy upper stages poured into the rarified air of the upper atmosphere and blossomed into a massive cloud of ice flakes.

The cloud expanded in two seconds to a diameter of 8 to 10 miles and 12 seconds later dissipated in the atmosphere.

The unloading of the water was a secondary scientific experiment designed to gather data on "how quickly the equilibrium would establish itself in the upper atmosphere after it had been disturbed by sudden introduction of the water."

Drops Cause Friction

A radar device in a tracking plane detected "electrical discharge phenomena" near the cloud. This was created by ice droplets of different sizes striking one another, causing friction. Study of data from the experiment may take weeks.

Despite two complete successful flights of the world's largest known rocket, Saturn will not soon overcome the Soviet lead over the United States in booster power.

The Russians are using a rocket with estimated thrust of one million pounds for manned and unmanned space flights. The most powerful operational U. S. space booster is the Atlas-Agena B with first stage thrust of 367,000 pounds.

Saturn has eight more test flights scheduled in the research program before it will be ready in 1964 to carry the first manned Apollo spacecrafts into earth orbit for periods up to two weeks.

Orange Hair Isn't 'Good Morale Builder'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Orange hair is improper for school, 17 high school boys here were told. The principal, J. Earl McCall, sent them home earlier this week when they returned from Easter vacation with their hair dyed various shades of orange.

He told them to get their hair dyed its original color. For some, it meant a trip to a beauty parlor.

East-West Tension Increase Predicted

U. S. Nuclear Tests, Planned Resumption by Soviets Blamed

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Resumption of U. S. nuclear testing in the atmosphere and an expected new round of Soviet tests will cause some increase in East-West tensions, Washington officials predict.

Highly placed sources here expect that Russia will begin a new test series fairly soon, now that the United States is testing over the central Pacific.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's declared intention to conduct more experimental nuclear blasts if the United States did so is the principal basis for this forecast. But, authorities here say it is evident from what is known of the results of Soviet tests last fall that Russian leaders would want to hold further experiments in order to develop their findings—particularly in the field of anti-missile defenses.

Red Propaganda

The extent to which East-West tensions build up will depend on the violence of the Soviet propaganda barrage and related actions that Khrushchev takes in the next few days.

For example, there has been speculation in Geneva that the Russians would walk out of the 17-nation disarmament conference. But at the State Department this was considered unlikely.

Recent public statements by Khrushchev, as in his interview with American publisher Gardner Cowles, were interpreted to mean that he foresees continuation of the disarmament talks.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Kennedy will review the test situation and its cold war impact, along with other world problems, when they meet at the White House Saturday.

The two Western leaders are likely to state their policy on testing in a declaration at the conclusion of their talks Sunday afternoon. They may take the occasion to affirm U. S. readiness to cancel the test series any time the Soviet government will sign an enforceable treaty prohibiting nuclear explosions.

A State Department spokesman said the United States would not call off the Pacific experiments in response to a declaration of Soviet willingness to negotiate an enforceable treaty ban.

Distress Call From Aircraft Over Ocean Described as Hoax

NEW YORK (AP)—The Coast Guard says a purported distress call from an aircraft over the Atlantic Ocean was a hoax.

A "Mayday" message, received Tuesday night at Pease Air Force Base in Portsmouth, N.H., gave the position of the "plane" as several hundred miles east of Boston.

The Coast Guard sent planes and cutters into the area Wednesday No aircraft had been reported.

Later, the search was discontinued.

Express Train Heralds New Era in Asia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — A train called the "ASA Express" is soon to roll across the frontier between Malaya and Thailand. It will mark the start of an era of cooperation that is brand new to Southeast Asia.

The train is named after the three - nation Association of Southeast Asia (ASA) whose foreign ministers have just concluded talks here putting the economic and cultural alliance into action.

The members are Malaya, Thailand and the Philippines. Each is relatively undeveloped. The partners felt they would gain strength by minimizing the importance of national borders and by coordinating economic and cultural growth.

Visa Requirements
The organization has projected trade and navigation agreements, relaxed visa requirements for each other's nationals, tourist promotion, cheaper press cable rates and extended telecommunications.

The ASA express will provide through service between Kuala Lumpur, the Malayan capital, and Bangkok, capital of Thailand. It begins service April 22, doing away with long stops at the border and eliminating the necessity of changing trains.

Future possibilities include an ASA development fund which would finance joint projects and the establishment of an Asian economic cooperation organization.

Authors Bring to Life Landmarks of History

American history — made and handled, the story makes good reading. In "Decision at Law", Judge David W. Peck tells us in extremely readable prose that although we may never get into court as a plaintiff or defendant, we still have a stake in the courts which fashion the laws we live by. His method of illustrating this is by recounting some landmark cases which reveal the legal process in action.

"America's Historylands: Landmarks of Liberty," published by the National Geographic Magazine, not only is replete with lovely pictures of historic American landmarks, but the text is extremely readable history as well. It is not just the story of statesmen and military heroes, but of blacksmiths, farmers, merchants and frontier women. Three-fourths of the material has never appeared in National Geographic Magazine.

A 1961 landmark in scientific exploration is described in "Seadrone: Northwest Under the Ice" by George P. Steele. The skipper of the nuclear submarine Seadrone tells how his undersea voyage made the first east-west traverse of the Arctic Sea in the summer of 1961, of the fascinating, sometimes harrowing experiences of that voyage, and of the tremendous preparations necessary for the historic trip.

Life Aboard Submarine
The author also explains some of the workings of the submarine, the way in which the crew lives submerged for weeks, and his thoughts during the trip. Capably

ASA idea back in 1959, has said: "It is our intention to show the world that the people of ASA can think and plan for themselves."

Other Southeast Asian nations, primarily Indonesia and Burma, have so far kept their distance from ASA, presumably because of firm Philippine and Thai attachment to the West.

When does life begin in legal recognition? What are the rights of the consumer against the manufacturer of a defective article? What makes a promise a contract? Is there a right of privacy? What are the possible consequences of a change of residence? These questions are some of the vital subjects covered in this book on the human development of the law.

New Non-Fiction Works
Other new non-fiction works include "Arab World Today" by Morroe Berger, "Great Westerner" by Bernice Blackwelder, "Guide to the Caribbean, Bahamas and Bermuda" by Eugene Fodor, "Imperial Democracy" by Ernest May, "Wisconsin Boy in Dixie" by James Newton, "Training Your Own Dog" by Anne Samstag, "Taproot of Soviet Society" by Nicholas Vakar and "Quaker Reader" by Jessamyn West.

New novels include "Sherlock Holmes of Baker Street" by Gould Baring, "Ride the Brooding Wind" by Madeline Duke, "Civil Contract" by George Heyer, "Woman of Jerusalem" by Elsie Mack, "Me and the Liberal Arts" by Dave Morrah, "Spirit Rises" by Sylvia Warner, and "Do Yourself a Favor, Kid" by James Stevenson.

A Policeman's Lot in Viet Nam

While United States soldiers are becoming increasingly involved in the open conflict in Viet Nam, England is conducting behind the scene negotiations with Soviet Russia. In part, the problem reflects the failure of SEATO to reach a firm understanding about repelling Communist attacks.

England and Russia were co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference that settled the Indo-Chinese war. They still are supposed to supervise the machinery for keeping the peace, the International Control Commissions. Since the commissions have three members, one from the free nations, one from the Communist and one a so-called neutral, they have been impotent. In Laos, for instance, the three members are from Canada, Poland and India and no agreement has been reached that Red troops actually were involved in invading the area or instigating revolt.

A little while ago Russia sought England's approval of a request that the Vietnamese problem again be taken to a conference. England has politely turned down the offer, specifically noted that the trouble came because of Red pressure from North Viet Nam and requested Russian cooperation in calling a halt to such activity. Russia presumably will politely refuse.

Optimists note that the Russian suggestion, like its attitude about Laos, has been calm and cool and almost indicates that the matter is of no real importance. It is in contrast with the heated demands of Red China that United States "aggression" be halted.

It is quite likely that the Soviet Union does not want the fracas in Viet Nam to get much larger. The United States apparently is firmly committed to the defense of Premier Diem's government, at least from the Red attacks. Any expansion of the war could involve the Red Chinese who might not be able to handle the situation. This would put Russia in the difficult position of risking a big war by helping the Chinese or losing its position of Red leadership by not sending in troops or even the Bomb.

Moreover, the United States must face the fact that Viet Nam may fall anyway. U.S. troops may have to be kept there indefinitely to repel the harassment from the North, Diem may really lose the support of more and more of his people and the Red Viet Cong may be able to take over almost through default. As in Laos, we may be saddled by a rightist element that is quite willing to fight Communists but knows little about getting the rest of the people enthused about the war. We already know from our experiences in China, what happens if we go in another direction and permit a coalition government with Red representation.

We can look back now and point out what should have happened in Southeast Asia. SEATO should have taken a strong stand against Red aggression a year ago and SEATO troops should have been sent into Laos. Apparently Sec. of State Dean Rusk tried to sell this point of view and he was assisted by such Asiatic countries as the Philippines and Malaya. But France and England, determined to believe they knew through their years of colonial control the vagaries of the Asiatics and that American ideas were right out of The Ugly American, would have none of the plan. The result may be years of conflict with no cohesion among the free nations.

Americans had better get used to notices of United States soldiers killed or captured in Viet Nam. Without a firm agreement among the Asian nations, or authority to drive into North Viet Nam, our troops must keep fighting a delaying defensive war with the forces of attrition on the other side.

Mr. Grasse's Speech

As he doubtless knew they would, the road user groups are responding sourly to the proposal of Chairman Harvey Grasse of the state highway department to finance what he assures is an absolutely necessary enlargement of Wisconsin road improvement spending.

The Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association, which historically has equated the tax cost of driving an automobile with a deterrent to vehicle sales, is especially angry about the highway administrator's recent speech. Mr. Grasse had better attend to his knitting, and permit the elected legislators of the state to make the decision about how much their constituents ought to be taxed, in the acid view of Mr. Milan of the WATA.

For ourselves, there is no special surprise in this latest appeal of the highway department for more spending authority. This campaign has been building for some time, as the earlier speeches of the highway commission members have indicated. It is also a natural, and often a wholesome fact, that men who are devoted to their public duties are more eager exponents of their programs than the people they are ostensibly serving.

We're willing to listen to Mr. Grasse's arguments, as a responsible man who knows more about highways and transport than do we.

But we are curious about his choice of time and place for this latest appeal for more spending power, and there are pressing some other questions about the merits of the controversy.

The highway commission chairman spoke during the week that thousands of Wisconsin citizens had just completed the unpleasant task of returning their state and federal income tax assessments. At the least, the timing was unfortunate. He chose as the place to make his speech the convention of the road builders of the state, whose interest in this theme is so obviously selfish that we wonder the question of taste did not occur to him. For a highway administrator to argue for more highway building money before a rally of commercial highway builders is a good deal like the tax commissioner addressing a group of civil servants about the need for raising taxes generally.

Mr. Grasse made a passing reference to the unsatisfactory method of allocating the present receipts of the state highway department. We would like to hear more about that, and possible reform, before embracing the idea of more taxation. Earlier the commission had complained publicly about the unfair system of distributing the vast revenues of the national Interstate highway program, for which Wisconsin, like the rest of the nation, is paying higher automotive taxes than ever before. We would explore the chances for equitable reform there, before endorsing Mr. Grasse's idea of taxing us willy-nilly.

Migration Changing?

A news story which received comparatively little attention says that West Germany is negotiating for unemployed Americans to work in Germany.

West Germany faces a labor shortage and has been importing workers from Italy and other countries. The importation of American workers would, in the opinion of certain West German leaders, help solve the labor shortage.

For the American public, this is an entirely new concept. Ever since the early days of settlement, America has been the land to which the surplus populations of other nations came.

From England, Ireland, Norway, Poland, Switzerland, Germany and almost every nation, workers poured into the United States to settle the land, build the country and man the factories.

World War I and subsequent immigration quotas shut down the flood of immigration to a mere trickle. Regular immigration has dropped steadily. Many countries today do not even use their full quotas.

Whether American workers actually will go to Germany still is unsettled. But if they should, this raises some interesting questions.

What will the future of these workers be? Will they leave their families behind and work in Germany only long enough to save up some money and then return home?

Will workers take their families with them? Will they continue to be Americans or will they gradually become "Germanized" much as their forebears became "Americanized"?

Then too, will other areas of deficit population — Australia, Brazil and other nations — seek Americans to help populate their countries?

What the ultimate answer will be, no one can say. But the reversal of the usual trend migration to the New World marks a radical change in the historical movements of people.

People's Forum

Writer Charges Inaccuracies In Letter About Medical Bill

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am writing in answer to a letter which appeared in a recent People's Forum, from Mr. Ray Wiese. I would like to contradict his many inaccuracies on the difference between the Anderson-King medical aid bill, now before the House Ways and Means Committee, and the Kerr-Mills bill which was passed by Congress in 1960.

First, Mr. Wiese says the King-Anderson covers 14,700,000 persons over 65 and are under Social Security. This is true but, what about the other 4.5 million people who are not under Social Security? Also, the King-Anderson bill would cover a person with income of any amount, even those who earn $20,000 or more a year, if he is eligible for Social Security benefits. The Kerr-Mills bill provides assistance for anyone over 65 whose "income and resources are insufficient to meet the costs of necessary medical expenses." Mr. Wiese says that under the Kerr-Mills bill the aged must first exhaust their savings and or sign over their home before they can receive assistance. The truth is that this is absurd. The states have control through the state legislature and the governor as to the scope of the program which can be as liberal as they wish. Michigan, for example, permits income of $2,500 a year for a married couple and still are eligible for assistance. All of the 30 states which have set up programs, have also set various income levels which people can have and still get medical aid.

Mr. Wiese tells what the King-Anderson bill covers, but does not tell what it does not cover. These are: No coverage of doctor's services at home, office or hospital. It does not cover surgeon's fees or dental fees. It does not pay for medicines used outside a hospital or nursing home and does not cover all hospital costs. The deductible feature is $90 during the first ten days, so the participant may pay more than just $10 as Mr. Wiese says. The bill also does not cover the cost of preventive medicines. Beneficiaries would not collect anything until they are sick enough to go to a hospital or nursing home.

The Kerr-Mills bill provides the federal government would pay 50 to 80 per cent of the medical costs of programs approved by the states. It also provides for sharing costs of health insurance, which would pay for most if not all of above mentioned items not covered by the King-Anderson bill.

The King-Anderson bill would be financed by social security taxes on earnings up to $5,000. Anyone not earning more than this amount would be taxed throughout his lifetime at the same amount as the individual earning $20,000. This tax applies only to the first $5,000 of income and remains at a fixed rate. There is no progression up to $5,000 and no tax would be levied on any taxpayer on earnings above $5,000 in his lifetime. This is not fair and equal payment of the costs.

Under the Kerr-Mills bill the costs are financed by progressive tax rates based on the ability to pay or the same as the income tax, which is more equal than one small part of the taxpayers paying all of the costs, which is the case under the King-Anderson bill.

If the King-Anderson bill is so good then why did the President, then Sen. Kennedy, vote passage of the Kerr-Mills bill in 1960? If it was to get votes from the senior citizens in his quest for the presidency, then he got what he wanted and now wishes to have it scrapped in favor of a program paid by an unjust, unfair, and unequal extra social security tax, slapped on not the majority, but, the minority of taxpayers.

So to those who believe in the fair American way then write to Congressmen Wilbur Mills, John Byrnes and Melvin Laird at the House Building, Washington, D.C. Also, write Sens. William Proxmire and Alexander Wiley at the Senate Building, Washington, D.C. Tell them that the King-Anderson bill should be defeated.

Last but not least, write to Gov. Nelson and your state assemblyman that the necessary legislation be instituted to take advantage of the Kerr-Mills bill, and for the good of our senior citizens' future health and happiness.

Gunboats Capture Florida City

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 26, 1862.

New York, April 21 — The city of Apalachicola has been successfully occupied by our troops, giving us another important point in Florida. The capture was effected by the gunboats Macedonia and Sagamon with little opposition on the 3d inst.

A few shells dispersed the rebels, and a portion of the population was found in almost starving condition. The blockade cut off supplies on the seaboard and their resources from the inland were not sufficient to maintain the ordinary comforts of life. Under these circumstances it is not to be wondered that the people should prove true to the Union.

Tax Subsidy Offered As a Campaign Aid

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A presidential commission has come up with the idea of income tax credits as a means to induce reluctant American private citizens to contribute financially to the partisan causes they espouse.

It may be that there are others besides this correspondent who find a mildly ironic echo in the fact that President Kennedy, who had so few difficulties in financing his political career, should have set up a blue ribbon commission to inquire into the problems of money in politics. Nevertheless, this commission report strikes at a problem that is as real as it is generally ignored by the public.

There may be some objections to the idea of a tax subsidy as a means of creating political party contributions — which is what the idea of tax deductibility to the donor obviously involves. Yet it must appear to most persons infinitely preferable to the tired old idea so often advanced by the liberals — that money be appropriated directly from the public treasuries for the financial succor of parties and their candidates as vote-seekers.

Asks Backers Of Port to Tell Supervisors

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Maybe it just seems that way but I have developed the idea that most of the letters printed in your letter to the editor section lately have been overwhelmingly against the proposed new county airport. Whether this is so or not, the fact remains that I am and have been in favor of the new facility for a long time and have until now done nothing about it.

The short-sightedness of these letters have finally awakened me to the fact that surely there are others who think as I who are doing nothing about it. A copy of this letter is going to my supervisor and I suggest that others feeling that for the Fox Cities to continue to grow we need this port phone or write their supervisors before we find that the chance to insure the growth of our area has another 20-year-set-back.

And while I'm at it how about calling our new airport the "Fox Cities" port. Let us tell the whole country that here in the Fox Valley we are one and that we are playing on the same team. Let's go, time is wasting.

been adopted in some parts of the world, never has had any perceptible support. Once it was offered in the Wisconsin legislature, and was virtually laughed out of the hall.

An idea of the tax credit idea that will appeal to most persons who are concerned about the problem of maintaining the integrity of parties and their tickets is that it will remain voluntary. The private citizen would find no more compulsion, or no greater inducement, than in his relations with the Red Cross or other public welfare societies.

Moreover, he would have a free choice of candidates and parties, according to their fluctuating appeals and special programs. Under a system of public financing of campaigns, the bitterly convinced foe of one party or the other, or one candidate or the other, would face the melancholy fact that he was supporting them with his money whether he wanted to do so or not.

There have been some comments here lately about the rapidly growing seriousness of the problem of money in politics. Some of the cost figures have brought incredulous replies. Yet they were offered deliberately, and with an intention of being conservative.

Relatively few persons who have not been directly involved in party affairs or campaign management believe the facts as they exist, even as few of them have any awareness that their obligations as active citizens ought to extend to making private contributions to the cause of their choice, however modest.

THIRD PERSON

There is the unfortunately common tendency to use the third person pronoun in referring to political parties and party campaigns.

Persons who vote Republican with regularity will say "they" when they refer to the campaign effort of their party. Democrats are perhaps more conscious of their affiliations, but comparatively few of them translate their community of belief into tangible contributions to the campaign treasury, notwithstanding.

Most persons vote, and in the political system as it exists, most of them support one party or the other on a reasonably regular basis. The issue that confronts them is the basic integrity of those parties. How long can they continue to survive as genuinely popular and respectable instrumentalities, when their financial demands make them ever more beholden — even against their wishes — to special interest groups that will demand their reward after the ballots are counted?

The presidential commission report is probably too idealistic to have a chance of legal adoption. Yet it will be useful if it inspires even a slightly improved degree of understanding.

Seven Military Missions in $48 Billion Defense Program

Attempt to Unify Services Made in Record-Setting Military Bill

BY ROBERT S. BOYD
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — The $48 billion military spending bill now working its way through Congress will go down in the record books for two reasons:

1. It is the biggest peacetime defense appropriation in history.
2. It is the first time defense programs have been sold to Congress on the basis of the job the programs are supposed to do rather than on the branch of the service that is to use the funds.

This could turn out to be the most significant step toward true unification of the military services since management-whiz Robert S. McNamara took the reins of the Pentagon.

The House has already voted the funds—and the Senate will shortly—in the old-fashioned, three-service way: $12 billion for the Army, $15 for the Navy, $19 billion for the Air Force, and $2 billion for the smattering of Pentagon-level "defense agencies."

Major Missions

But the planning, analysis and key decisions on money were made on the basis of seven "major military missions" such as "strategic retaliation" or "continental defense."

These seven "program packages," as they are called, were worked out by McNamara's brain squad without regard to traditional service boundaries.

The "Strategic Retaliatory Forces," for example, include the Air Force's big bombers and nuclear rockets, plus the Navy's missile-toting Polaris submarines.

In the "Continental Defense Forces" are the Air Force's speedy fighter-interceptor planes and the Army's nuclear-tipped Nike Hercules antiaircraft missiles.

Biggest 'Package'

The biggest "package" in money and manpower, the "General Purpose Forces," takes in the bulk of the Army and Navy, all the Marines, and the part of the Air Force that's meant for "tactical" fighting.

The other "program packages" are "Research and Development," "Airlift and Sealift," "Reserve and National Guard Forces," and a catch-all category, "General Support Forces."

Not only was the budget for the coming year broken down this way—spending plans for the next five years were also outlined in terms of these seven missions.

The House Appropriations Committee, which does most of Congress's spade work on defense spending, called McNamara's new budget approach a "welcome management improvement innovation."

Immediate Evaluation

"It provides policy-making officials, including the members of Congress, with an immediate evaluation of where the major emphasis in this great defense effort lies," the committee said.

"Only in this way can the administration and the Congress weigh the adequacy of, and the need for, the programs proposed by the military planners."

The Congressmen warned, however, that the budget was not to be used as an entering wedge for abolishing the Army, Navy and Air Force as separate organizations.

It's a "useful tool," and that's all, the committee said.

Here is how your $48 billion is split among the seven "program packages."

$2.5 Billion

This includes $2.5 billion to run the forces that will be on hand in 1963—1,700 manned bombers, 225 liquid-fueled Atlas and Titan intercontinental ballistic missiles, 220 solid-fueled Polaris and Minuteman missiles hidden underwater or underground, plus 90 intermediate-range Thor and Jupiter missiles based in England and Italy.

Another $5 billion will go to buy new weapons. By 1967 that will give us more than 1,000 ground-based ICBM's and equip 41 submarines and 700 aircraft with Polaris, Skybolt, and Hounddog missiles.

Finally, there is $1.2 billion to develop and test new retaliatory weapons.

2. Continental air and missile defense forces — $2 billion.

This provides $1.4 billion to operate the nation's nearly completed defense network against enemy bombers — the radar "fence" stretching from Alaska to Greenland and along both coasts, the automatic control networks, the interceptor planes and the antiaircraft missiles.

General Purpose

The other $600,000,000 will go for work on the very limited defense against enemy missiles, such as the partly finished Ballistic Missile Early Warning System.

3. General Purpose Force — $18.2 billion.

These are the forces that would fight a conventional, limited or guerrilla-style war. Half the money is to run the existing force, and the rest is to buy new equipment, including a new aircraft carrier, eight nuclear submarines and thousands of helicopters, short-range airplanes, tactical missiles, tanks, trucks, and rifles.

The General Purpose Forces include 16 Regular Army divisions, five armored regiments, three airborne brigades, 10 infantry battle groups, 33 missile battalions, three Marine divisions and air wings, 862 Navy ships, 2,834 helicopters and nearly 10,000 fixed-wing airplanes.

4. Research and development — $5.5 billion.

Here's where the money goes for the weapons of the future. Key items in the budget:

Nike-Zeus, the anti-missile-missile the Army hopes will be able to shoot down enemy ICBM's like one bullet hitting another.

RS-70, the Air Force's proposed 2,000-mile-an-hour reconnaissance-strike bomber.

Project Defender, a broad-range search for a defense against missiles.

Project Vela, research on ways to detect nuclear tests.

Project Pluto, work on a nuclear ramjet power plant.

Project Trident to cope with the threat of attack from missile-bearing submarines.

Dyna-Soar, the Air Force's manned space glider.

X-15, an experimental airplane that flies at the edge of space.

Midas and Samos, the Air Force's hush-hush spy-in-the-sky satellites.

Typhoon, the Navy's new missile system.

Mauler, the Army's latest missile.

5. Airlift and sealift forces — $1.3 billion.

Existing Forces

About $500,000,000 of this will operate the existing force of 56 military air transport and Navy troop carrier squadrons.

The other $800,000 will buy and develop new jet transports and modern roll-on-roll-off cargo ships that will triple the nation's ability to rush troops to a brush-fire war.

6. Reserve and National Guard forces — $1.8 billion.

This money will support a back-up force of more than a million men — 400,000 in the Army National Guard, 300,000 Army Reservists, 125,000 Navy Reservists, 45,500 Marine Reservists, 72,000 in the Air National Guard, and 61,000 Air Force Reservists.

7. General Support Forces — $11.8 billion.

This covers everything from recruiting troops to burying them. It provides for supplies, transportation, training, communications, intelligence, medical services and retirement.

Prelude to Another Escapade?

'New' Nikita Seems Quiet, Withdrawn

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev seems quieter, perhaps because he's getting older. This, if true, would be comforting to the Western nervous system that he has kept a-tingle.

This bubbly and imaginative man, just turned 68, has been notoriously impatient with delay and stuffed shirts. He acted as if under compulsion to get the show on the road, no matter what show.

But now for months, compared with the earlier Khrushchev, he has seemed rather withdrawn. There has been less flamboyance, in word and deed, less animal spirit, less thunder in his threats of lightning.

Refreshed Bear

At least he seems that way to this writer, although it is easy to read too much into his periods of quietude between escapades. He has had them before and came charging back like a refreshed bear.

An example of the slowing down in the Khrushchevian tempo—if that's what it is—was laid on the table this week with release of an interview he gave an American publisher, Gardner Cowles.

In the past Khrushchev seemed obsessed with the need for a summit, without such preliminaries as a meeting of foreign ministers to see if there could be any agreement before the top men got together.

But the interview with Cowles showed he has changed his mind. Now he says there should be a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting only if their diplomats can first negotiate agreements or if war threatens.

This doesn't sound like the bouncy, hard-driving Khrushchev of old. Nor was it his only recent change of heart, although it's always been tough to figure whether or just in his tactics.

In an interview with American columnist Walter Lippmann in 1961 Khrushchev said Russia had never done any nuclear testing underground, and never would, because there is no value in small tactical weapons.

Another Change

By April 13, 1962, he had changed. At that time, refusing the kind of nuclear test ban agreement the West wanted and knowing Kennedy would resume testing if he didn't, Khrushchev said:

In the future Russia would match all tests carried out by the West—whether underground, in the atmosphere, or in outer space.

So his moments of calm after crises don't necessarily mean that he is getting tired.

Home Problems

Meanwhile, he's had some problems at home in this past year, despite some spectacular successes like orbiting men around the earth. One of them is the fact that the Russians have a miserable food supply.

This alone would be enough to

Paper Institute Student Receives Science Grant

The third award to be received in two years by graduate students of the Institute of Paper Chemistry from the National Science Foundation has been announced.

Harold L. Hintz, a graduate of Wesleyan College, Middletown, Conn., and a first year of graduate student at the institute, will receive a Co-operative Graduate Fellowship for aid in his graduate study during the 1962-63 school year.

Hintz was one of 458 graduate students in the physical sciences to receive such an award. He will receive a basic stipend from the NSF augmented by funds from the Institute.

Hintz is married and lives in West Court Village.

Rural Almond Youth Loses Driving Permit

WAUPACA — Richard G. Hotchkiss, 16, route 2, Almond, lost his driving privileges for 90 days after he admitted violating his temporary driving permit.

He was stopped by city police for following too close to another vehicle. He appeared before Municipal Justice George Whalen.

make many a leader a little self-conscious about directing the destiny of the world before he could feed his own people better. It may have had a sobering effect on Khrushchev.

This Cathedral in Chillan, Chile, is an example of the modern building which may be found in Latin America. In many sections of Latin America the old and the new are found side by side.

Poverty, High Birth Rate 2 Of Chile's Greatest Problems

Food Shortage Created by Poor Land Distribution, Improper Use

SANTIAGO, Chile—Chile, sometimes called the "shoe-string" republic, is a ribbon of land stretching 2,800 miles from north to south—a distance greater than from New York to Los Angeles. Its average width is only 110 miles, of which the Andes and the coastal range take up more than one-half of the country's 286,394 square miles. The highest mountain in the Western Hemisphere is the peak of Aconcagua which lies in the Chilean

This is the third in a series of articles on Latin America by the Rev. Julian C. Resch, O. Praem, a member of St. Norbert Abbey, DePere, Wis. Father Resch was appointed director of Norbertine missions for Latin America in July.

Andes and rises to 23,003 feet. Down the whole length of the land there runs a valley between the two mountain ranges. Chile has wide variations of climate, soil, and occupations for its 7,204,000 people.

There is less racial diversity in Chile than in most Latin American countries. There are about 50,000 indigenous Indians and another 200,000 of closely allied stock. The rest of the population is a viril and energetic compound of bloods. To the original Spanish colonists have been added immigrants from Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland, Yugoslavia and England. Their influence has been out of all proportion to their numbers.

Population Doubles

The population has more than doubled since 1900. The rate of population growth is 2.35 per cent annually—one of the highest in the world. The last published birth rate was 34.6 per thousand, a figure exceeded in only a few

Rudolf Hess, 21 Years in Allied Hands

Defecting Nazi Bigwig to Mark 68th Birthday

BERLIN (AP)—Rudolf Hess, once Adolf Hitler's deputy, will be 68 Thursday. It will be his 21st birthday in the hands of Hitler's enemies. He flew to Scotland in May 1941, and was taken captive. Hess is one of the three people in Berlin still living under the joint rule of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France. The others are Albert Speer, Hitler's munitions minister, and Baldur von Schirach, his youth leader.

All have been confined since 1946 in Spandau Prison, a gloomy red brick structure on Berlin's outskirts.

Life Term
Hess is serving a life term. The other two were sentenced to 20 years by the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal. The three prisoners spend their time reading and gardening. They are allowed one 30-minute visit a month, but Hess does not receive visitors. At least this was the situation six years ago. Allied authorities now refuse any information on the prisoners.

It costs more than $60,000 a year to maintain the prison. Every year, when the city of West Berlin has to make up its budget, there are complaints about the cost of maintaining this huge prison for three men. So far, however, the big four powers have not been able to agree about doing anything else with them.

countries. Infant mortality is still high—112 per thousand live births. The pressure of population increase is being felt mostly in the cities—Santiago has grown 80 per cent in the last twenty years to reach a total of 1,854,000; Valparaisa has 284,000 and Concepcion 170,000. There are many cities under 100,000.

Poverty follows the high birth rate and the serious maldistribution of the land together with the inefficient use of it. It is estimated that 11 per cent suffer from malnutrition, another 27 per cent from serious malnutrition and 11 per cent from desperate malnutrition. This condition is found not only in the cities but even in rural areas. The rate of illiteracy is about 20 per cent—one of the lowest in Latin America.

Problem of Food

Chile's most pressing economic problem is thus how to grow enough food for herself. Food production has increased but not enough to keep pace with the population growth. Partly this is due to soil erosion and the falling yield per hectare in the grain fields, but mostly to the primitive and inefficient use of the arable land, a hold over from the colonial distribution of land. The Conquistadors were rewarded with large gifts of encomiendas—grants to collect taxes from the Indians living within them. But these grants were soon changed into actual ownership. Four-fifths of Chilean farms were worked by their owners. None the less, 11 per cent of the people own 88 per cent of the land. Some 111,400 farms are under 200 hectares (494 acres). 10,300 farms are from 200 to 1,000 hectares; and 700 are more than 2,000 hectares (12,350 acres). One hacienda near Santiago is said to cover 160,000 hectares (618 square miles). An agrarian reform bill is now pending in the national congress. Nearly two-thirds of Chile's area is desert or mountain.

Land Forested

More than half of the land which could be used for agriculture is forested, about a quarter is natural grazing land and only 20 per cent is in a state fit for cultivation. Much of this lays fallow so that only 4 per cent of the total area is annually under cultivation. Grains, legumes, fruits (especially grapes) and plants producing edible oils are raised. There is a large fish-canning industry. But more than 70 per cent of the agricultural land is used for raising cattle—2,450,000 head. In addition there are 5,800,000 sheep. Imports of food account for 21 per cent of Chile's total imports.

Rambling Haciendas

Middle Chile is a beautiful and peaceful land. Great rows of eucalyptus, poplars, and weeping willows crisscross the landscape. These were planted as wind breaks and to provide fire wood. The roads are paralleled by irrigation canals for the summer is very dry. The melting snow in the mountains keep the rivers flowing in summer, and water distribution is simple and cheap

SINUS-COLD SUFFERERS

Sinus congestion, head cold got you down? Feel miserable, headachy all day? Can't sleep at night? You want relief. You want Syna-Clear Decongestant Tablets. Unlike ordinary cold pills each "Hard-Core" tablet contains many tiny concentrates. Some work in minutes for fast relief. Some are scientifically formulated to dissolve slowly and continuously. One tablet works up to 8 hours. Three tablets provide round-the-clock comfort. No need to take 10 or 12 tablets anymore. Actually costs only 30¢ for 24 hours relief. Ask your pharmacist for Syna-Clear in the blue and white package. You'll get the kind of relief you've always wanted.

because the land slopes gently from east to west.

Among eucalyptus groves and beautiful gardens stand the rambling hacienda houses of the medieval estates known as "fundos." Close by will be a huge conglomeration of storerooms, granaries, wine storehouses, stables, dairies, and workshops. At a little distance is a single street of workmen's huts. The agricultural laborers are called inquilinos; they are not peons but by tradition are closely bound to the patron. They are now paid a living wage and usually have the use of an acre or two of land for their private use—to grow fruit or corn, to keep a cow, or pigs, and chickens. Usually he has another plot elsewhere on the "fundo" to grow grain. His house is made of adobe with a mud floor, without sanitation or heating.

The small independent farms are generally on poor land, their owners are scarcely above the living standard of the inquilinos. The number of these farms is growing, but until the hacienda system is broken, or unless the hacienda owners turn to modern farming methods, there is little chance for Chile to feed her population adequately.

Fire Chief Asks Purchase of Station Site

Kuehnl Recommends City Buy C&NW Freight Depot

Appleton's new fire chief, Ronald L. Kuehn, is recommending that the city buy the old Chicago North Western Railroad freight depot on Franklin Street as the site for a new downtown fire station.

He made the recommendation Tuesday to both the public safety committee and the board of public works.

Chief Kuehn said the property would provide ample room for a station that could include needed classrooms, a rescue squad room, a mechanical department for equipment maintenance and sufficient space for equipment which now is crowded together in the old station.

He says a new station should have at least a 30-foot setback from streets so fire trucks can be maneuvered without danger of traffic accidents and so the ends of aerial ladders don't hit the building as the trucks turn onto streets.

The public safety committee took the chief's recommendation under consideration.

Won't Hire Architect

The board of public works recommended that the public safety committee study possible sites and recommend one.

Board members decided not to hire an architect to study the feasibility of remodeling the old station or of building a new station on the same site. They felt the site is too small. They were authorized at the last council meeting to hire an architect.

The freight depot property was offered to the city in March for $121,500. The offer was rejected because the works board felt the price was too high.

It was not considered as a possible fire station site because it is adjacent to a multi-track railroad crossing.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters last year rejected as a

Attorneys for Salan Want De Gaulle and Debre as Witnesses

PARIS (AP)—Ex-Gen. Raoul Salan's defense has issued a list of witnesses it wants for the treason trial of the captured chief of the anti-Gaullist secret army in Algeria. Among them are President de Gaulle and the recently retired Premier Michel Debre.

Unless the witnesses are called, Attorney Jean-Louis Tixier-Vignancour said, Salan will stand mute at his imminent pre-trial hearing before an examining magistrate.

The lawyer said he particularly wanted to question the witnesses about an assassination attempt on Salan when he was commanding French forces in Algeria and about the May 13, 1958, Algiers uprising by Salan and others that led to the return of de Gaulle to power.

possible site the property immediately north of the railroad tracks behind the freight depot site.

They said that the railroad crossing could be a serious hindrance to fire trucks on the way to a fire. They recommended the city find a site on E. College Avenue, in the vicinity of Lawrence College.

Present Site

Public safety committee members recalled the underwriters' recommendations Tuesday night while discussing the chief's recommendation.

Committeemen said again they would like to know the feasibility of building a new station on the present site. Several felt that if it were built three stories high maybe all the needed space could be provided.

Mayor Mitchell has proposed building a new city building, including room for the fire and police departments.

However, several aldermen recalled that only two years ago the city spent $90,000 to build an addition to the police station and to remodel the old portion. Also, approximately $50,000 has been spent in the last few years to remodel city hall.

"We have to amortize that investment or it never should have been made," they say.

One public safety committee man said Tuesday night that city hall now is in good enough condition to be used for almost another 50 years.

4 Highway Accidents In State Take 6 Lives

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four accidents on Wisconsin highways have claimed six lives and raised the state's 1962 traffic toll to 206 compared with 246 one year ago. The victims included two Watertown women and two Milwaukee high school boys involved in two separate crashes.

A two-car head-on crash on Dodge County Highway W, two miles east of Beaver Dam, caused the death of two Watertown women Wednesday night. The dead were Mrs. Caroline Walworth, 45, and Mrs. Luella Storbeck, 57.

Two Beaver Dam men riding in the other car were injured. Larry Callies, 22, was taken to Madison General Hospital suffering from multiple fractures and Lloyd Schrab, 28, was hospitalized at Beaver Dam.

Frederick J. Wollin of Madison, 34-year-old father of six children, was killed Wednesday night when his car and a truck collided on Madison's East Belt Line near Cottage Grove. After the impact, Wollin's car veered into a swampy area where he was thrown out. The vehicle then caught fire.

The truck driver, George L. Hibel of Davenport, Iowa, was ordered to report to the Dane County district attorney's office this morning.

Mrs. Thomas Victor, 50, Pickeral Lake, died Wednesday night when the car in which she was driving alone went out of control and crashed in a ditch on Highway 55 just north of Hollister in Langlade County. She was thrown out and the car rolled over her. The car was not equipped with seat belts.

Students Killed

Michael J. Lynch, 17, and Gordon Lisota, 18, pupils at Milwaukee Messmer High School, were killed Wednesday when the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision on Highway 45, about five miles south of West Bend in Washington County.

They were passengers in a car driven by Thomas Holton, 19, also of Milwaukee. Police said the Holton car was passing another when an auto driven by John R. Ison, 27, of rural West Bend, came over the hill. The cars collided as the Holton car turned to the left to get off the road, police said.

The youths reportedly were heading for an outing at Mauthe Lake in Fond du Lac County.

Car Driven by Boy Crashes Headon Into Bus on Madison Street

MADISON (AP)—A 15-year-old boy police said had no driver's license and no permission to drive his mother's car crashed headon into a city bus on a Madison street Wednesday.

The youth, hospitalized with a broken leg, will have a hearing later in juvenile court. Two bus passengers reported injuries. Police said damage to the bus amounted to $4,000. Car damage was fixed at $1,400.

Bus driver James Finn, 47, was treated for cuts and bruises.

Policeman Frank Trappe said he started chasing the youth when he spotted the boy making too fast a start from a stop light in a top-down convertible.

Nash Plans June Visit to State

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commissioner of Indian Affairs Philelo Nash, former lieutenant governor of Wisconsin, is planning a business visit to the state in June.

Nash will be in Madison on June 9 for a meeting with Wisconsin officials on Indian problems in the state.

The Wisconsin stop by Nash is part of an extended tour by the commissioner and other bureau officials through Indian areas of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Airspace Fight Rehashed in Kansas City

Osthkosh airport north would decrease service for towns like Fond du Lac and Green Lake.

Robert Smith, manager of the Green Bay airport said the coming of jet traffic into regional airports means "the FAA should protect our airspace in every possible way."

Procedure Not Followed

Smith said Brown County opposed the airspace request because the normal procedure of having a state hearing on the airport itself was not followed and because no land was purchased or no money pledged.

"We feel that you have the cart before the horse here and ask that the request for airspace be deferred until the proper hearings have been held," he said.

Smith noted that Jordan had warned that "chaos" would result if all Wisconsin local governments with airport projects skipped statutory state hearings to carry requests for funds to the FAA. The procedural reversal has reached a point that an Appleton survey has already divided airline service with Green Bay's departures reduced from 24 to eight, Smith said.

Some Military

The Outagamie County airspace request, subject of a $2.8 million bond issue decision by the county board which could come next month, included airspace for approach to four runways including an eventual 7,000-foot ILS runway.

The meeting's attendance included observers for military air traffic, some of whom grinned at the intensity of the Appleton-Osthkosh argument, the Air Transport Association, and the Airline Pilots Association. The only competitor from them was a query committee member, Joseph from the airline spokesman on Drexler, board chairman, and how the situation might fit with designed to operate these devices went haywire shortly after launch.

Scientists at the jet propulsion laboratory, where Ranger 4 was built, tracked its faint radio beacon at the Goldstone tracking station on the Mojave Desert 50 miles north of Barstow, Calif.

The first light of dawn was spreading across the desert as Ranger 4 neared its target. A flashing red light at the base of the huge antenna warned ground personnel that Operation Moon Track was in progress.

In a building at the base of the antenna, observers watching a closed-circuit television screen saw the cross-hairs of a simulated gun sight slowly approach the left side of the moon.

The cross-hairs indicated Ranger 4's position as it streaked through space. The seven-foot-long vehicle itself was, of course, too small to be detected visually.

Then the cross-hairs of the gun sight touched the edge of the moon.

Not Visible From East

The impact area is on part of the moon never seen from the earth. The moon always keeps the same side toward this planet.

So the only way to look at the back side is to go there.

The area was photographed in 1959 by a Russian Lunik. Television shots relayed to earth showed the area to be a rough upland, devoid of the great, flat areas—called seas—visible on the moon's front side.

Ranger was supposed to do much more than just smash into the moon.

Its big job was to take television pictures of the moon's surface. It also carried instruments to measure the temperatures on the moon in the new CAB emphasis on regional airports.

Brown County was represented at the hearing by Smith, Herbert Foth, and Frank Guerts, chairman of the county board airport committee.

Outagamie County's representatives were Catlin, all the members of his airport committee, Compton, Donohue, Baldwin, and John Conway, a member of the Chamber of Commerce committee.

Winnebago County was represented by Widder, Elmer Stein-Pilots Association. The only competitor from them was a query committee member, Joseph from the airline spokesman on Drexler, board chairman, and how the situation might fit with Steve Wittman, airport manager.

East German 'Armor Practices For May Day

BERLIN (AP)—East German tanks and heavy guns rattled through the empty streets of East Berlin at dawn today, practicing for the annual May Day parade.

At one point they were only a few yards from the Communist wall.

East Berlin's May Day parade regularly includes heavy military equipment despite the Soviet-Western occupation agreement banning German military equipment from Berlin. The Western powers usually protest the violation.

On the other side of the wall, West Berlin planned its own big May Day demonstration. Hundreds of thousands are expected to gather to hear speeches by West German President Heinrich Lübke and Mayor Willy Brandt.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, winding up his mission as President Kennedy's personal envoy, will appear.

Saboteurs Blamed for Towering Fire in Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—The Communist newspaper Hoy said it was presumed that saboteurs set the towering fire that broke out Tuesday night on scaffolding surrounding the incomplete 20-story National Bank of Cuba.

Six persons were reported treated for smoke inhalation from the fire, which firemen controlled after several hours.

(believed to range from 230 below to 260 degrees above, on the Fahrenheit scale) and to measure moonquakes. Readings were to be radioed to earth.

Messaggero said the American tests were "no less worrisome" than the Soviet series and protested: "Years of discussions and interminable conferences have been unable to make a single advance toward moderation and reflection, and the loud protests that continue to go up from the people...remain sterile and unlistened to."

Paris' liberal Le Monde complained that both the United States and Russia appeared "indifferent to the lessons of the past."

Swedish Premier Tage Erlander said the American tests confirmed his government's fear that the Soviet Union's earlier resumption of tests might lead to a "reckless arms race in the field of nuclear armament."

Norway's Foreign Minister Halvard Lange declared: "The news of the American tests will be received with regret in wide circles in this country."

In Geneva, there was speculation whether the Russians might walk out of the 17-nation disarmament conference, Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin Wednesday night brushed aside all questions with: "no comment."

A member of the Canadian delegation at Geneva said Canada sympathizes with the United States but added: "We are against any nuclear tests in any environment."

In the United Arab Republic, Cairo's daily Al Akhbar said: "Our belief in positive neutrality will find an echo among peace-loving nations when world peace remains at stake. Let's hope the Geneva disarmament conference makes a step forward and saves the world from the terrible nightmare—nuclear tests."

Citizens of Hiroshima, the first atom-bombed city, reacted with dismay and regret. Former Gov. Hiroo Onuma said: "We feel such tests should have been suspended long, long—at all costs—on any account."

Zorin Charges U. S. Bomb Tests Endanger World

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin angrily charged today that the new American nuclear tests were "an aggressive act directed against the whole world which has pushed us closer to the abyss of inevitable war."

Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference the Soviet Union was now compelled "to take the necessary measures to protect its security"—presumably a new series of Soviet atmospheric tests.

But neither Zorin nor any of the other four Soviet bloc delegates walked out of the conference, as they threatened last week to do if the United States launched its new test series.

Western officials believe the Soviet government is anxious to conduct more atmospheric tests and has only been waiting for the start of the American series to by the Senate Judiciary Committee and was scheduled for passage this week on the senate floor.

Substitute Bill Offered

But in the last week or so the Senate Majority Leader, Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), began looking around for a way to get the administration's literacy test bill onto the senate floor.

He couldn't do it by regular procedures because the senate committees that handle civil rights legislation are dominated by Southerners — and they had bottled up the administration's bill.

So Mansfield decided to substitute the administration's literacy test bill for Norman's. Under senate rules the only thing he could do was to find a bill already scheduled for action on the senate floor.

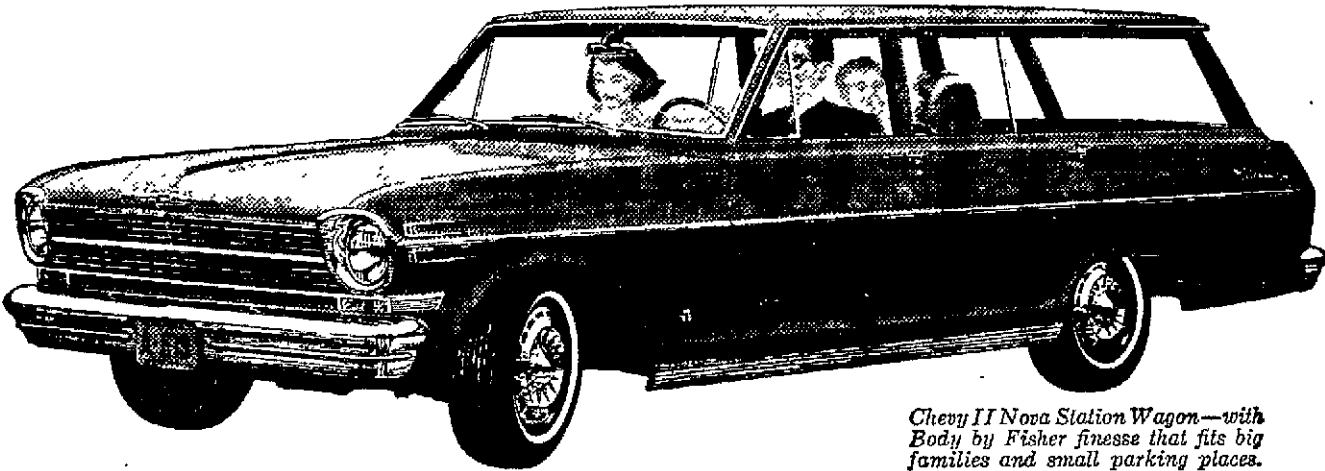

Yesterday he made the substitution.

For the moment, at least, James M. Norman, and his $2,001.48, are out in the cold — temporary victims in a great national struggle over civil rights.

As nearly as anyone here knows, Norman has not yet been told.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean assured the conference that a quick and permanent ban on nuclear testing remains a "prime objective" of United States policy.

Strained Ligament
Sidelines Arroyo
NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Arroyo, the New York Yankees' reliever, will be out of action for a few days due to a strained ligament in back of his left elbow. Although X-rays proved negative, the stocky Puerto Rican was advised Wednesday not to pitch for a few days.

Robin Roberts, Clem Labine Draw Releases

Former Phils Ace Gets No Chance to Hurl for Yanks

NEW YORK (AP)—A couple of right-handers who once possessed two of the proudest names in baseball — Robin Roberts and Clem Labine — have been given their walking papers.

Roberts, who was baseball's winningest pitcher over one six-year period for the Philadelphia Phillies, drew his outright release from the New York Yankees Wednesday. Labine, a top relief man and pitching mainstay of the old Brooklyn Dodgers, was released by the New York Mets today.

Roberts is 35. Labine is 38. Each was overlooked in the expansion draft. Their outright release is the second for each. Each may be at the end of his baseball career, though Roberts says he doesn't intend to quit. Labine was not immediately available for comment.

Roberts, who won 234 games with the Phillies, was near tears as he packed his bag in the Yankee dressing room.

"I want to stay in baseball as an active player," he said. "Naturally, I am a little shocked at this release, but I think I am still capable of pitching."

He didn't pitch an inning for the Yankees this season. New York picked him up after he had been given his outright release by the Phillies after a 1-10 season last year.

"He didn't fit into our relief plans and I couldn't work him into the starting rotation," Yankee Manager Ralph Houk said. "It is our feeling that he should have every chance to get another job and it is for that reason that we are releasing him at this time."

Labine, who made a career as a relief man, played on four National League champion teams — Brooklyn in 1953, '55 and '56, and the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1959.

He and catcher Joe Ginsberg were released from the Mets to make way for catcher Harry Chiti, purchased outright from Cleveland, and right-handed pitcher Dave Hillman, purchased from Syracuse.

Labine, signed as a free agent after being dropped by Pittsburgh, worked in three games, all in relief, for the Mets this season.

20 Teams Will Compete in KAC Softball Tourney

KAUAKUNA — Dates for the annual Kaukauna Athletic Club softball tournament have been announced.

Twenty Fox Valley area teams will participate in the meet which will run through two weekends. Opening games will be played June 22, 23 and 24, and the wind-up will be on June 29, 30 and July 1.

Over $700 in trophies will be awarded. This year's meet will be a single elimination tourney. The KAC uses proceeds for various athletic activities.

bounced into the distant left field bull pen, an enormous triple, and a solo home run, his fifth of the season. The double combined with singles by Al Smith, Floyd Robinson and Mike Hershberger got the Sox off to a two run lead in the first.

Landis Triples
Landis' triple came in the eighth and he scored when Jim Coates cut loose with a wild pitch.

After Landis' home run in the fifth, the Yankees got a pair of runs in their half on doubles by Ford and Clete Boyer, and a single by Mantle.

Maris' two singles ended a long batting slump, that saw him go hitless in 16 appearances at the plate.

Skowron, Yankee first baseman, homered to right field in the eighth with the bases empty.

Red Sox Win Behind Conley

Gene Also Homers As Senators Lose Eighth Straight

BOSTON (AP)—Boston, with home runs from Frank Malzone and pitcher Gene Conley, sent the last place Washington Senators to their eighth straight loss Wednesday.

In addition to clouting a two-run homer in the five-run Red Sox fourth inning, Conley limited the Senators to five hits while winning his second game against one defeat. He had eight strikeouts.

Malzone put Boston ahead 3-0 in the fourth with his first home run of the season. Carl Yastrzemski and Jim Pagliaroni had walked before he hit his homer.

Chuck Schilling then singled and Conley hit starter Jim Hannan's first pitch into the left field screen for a 5-0 lead.

The Senators were unable to get a runner as far as second base until Bob Johnson and Ken Retzer singled and John Schaive doubled in the eighth for Washington's only run.

The Sox added their last two runs in the seventh. Conley walked, Yastrzemski singled and Pagliaroni drove a double into a strong wind and off the left field wall, scoring both.

Coisman Slams 606 Pin Triple

John Coisman powered a 246 game and a 606 set to pace the Sherwood Sportsman's League at the Michiels Bowl Monday evening.

Birling Dairy is the team pacesetter, with a 65½-27½ record. Paul Mauer's 232 and 577, Bill Reinke's 568, and Gene Giesen's 551, were the other honor counts.

Boxer Tunney Hunsaker, and his wife Phyllis, are shown above just prior to their leaving for home Wednesday. Hunsaker had been confined to the Bluefield, W. Va., Hospital after brain surgery after a fight with Cleveland's Joe Sheldon on April 6.

Weyauwega's Behm Holds State's Top Time for '880'

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The early gone over the standard with a spring track and field performance of Wisconsin's high school athletes show the result of the long hard winter, except in the shot put where the state record has been cracked by two boys.

The top performances to date were announced Wednesday by the Interscholastic Track Coaches Association, which plans to compile the "Honor Roll" on a weekly basis throughout the season.

Milwaukee area school dominate the list of leaders, with representatives of the Milwaukee City Conference, the Suburban and Braveland conference first in all events except the 880, discus, high jump and mile relay.

Leads 2 Events
Aquine Jackson of Milwaukee Boys' Tech leads in two events, turning in a time of 10 seconds in the 100-yard dash and 22.1 seconds in the 220.

John Mender of Whitefish Bay topped the assault on the state mark of 57 feet 6 inches in the shot with a toss of 57-11¼. Gary Crites of Manitowoc has also

Colorado's Carlson Expects 2-4 Year Penalty for School

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Colorado athletic director Harry Carlson expects a two to four year penalty for his school as the powerful and stern infractions committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association reports today.

The NCAA's official word about discipline is that there are no penalties in sight, but that's the usual comment from officials of the organization until any action is made public.

There have been consistent reports that Colorado is in line for a severe penalty because of the alleged "slush fund" operated by former coach Everett (Sonny) Grandelius, who was fired as head coach of the Buffaloes on March 17 after giving Colorado its first Big Eight football crown last fall.

Carlson told newsmen he expected Colorado to be put on probation for two to four years.

There was speculation, however, that the NCAA might consider the fact that Colorado fired Grandelius and publicly exposed recruiting conditions following an NCAA probe.

Moss Making Steady Progress, Says Bulletin

LONDON (AP)—British racing driver Stirling Moss made steady progress during the night and is "now slightly regaining consciousness," a hospital bulletin reported today.

"The apparent paralysis of the left side of the body is showing signs of recovery," the bulletin added. "His general condition is now no cause for anxiety."

There had been no previous mention of Moss having suffered even partial and temporary paralysis.

Missouri, Too?

There was another report Wednesday night that Missouri also in the Big Eight conference might be up for NCAA scrutiny for practically the same reasons Colorado is under fire.

The NCAA executive committee okayed a $5,000 appropriation to study the possibility of establishing a national scholastic minimum for college athletes.

The committee also approved four additional championships for its college division, adding golf, track and field, tennis and wrestling.

The dates for the national baseball championships were set June 11-15 at the University of Omaha.

Menasha Man in New State Theater Venture

For Summer Troupe in Madison

BY JINGO
The Fox Cities will have a vicarious connection with a new professional theatrical enterprise in the state when a summer stock company opens at the Town Club in Madison.

One of the staff of three directors will be Richard Robinson, recently of Menasha High School and more recently of the Haresfoot Club troupe of the University of Wisconsin.

The new troupe will become the third such enterprise in the state. Like the Swan Theater and the Skylight Theater in Milwaukee, The Town Club troupe will offer a full, theatrically centered evening, from soup to well-nuts.

The season will consist of 10 weeks featuring three arena musicals: "45 Minutes from Broadway" by George M. Cohan, "Once Upon a Holiday," by Moss Hart, and "Lady in the Dark."

In addition to handling staging, musical and technical directorial chores, there is a chance that Dick will appear as the lead in the middle show. The role calls for a man of the world, one of the several characters Dick played when he romped into the Fox Cities with the last Haresfoot extravaganza that appeared here.

Robinson's partners in the venture will be Raff Brewster, a producer of considerable talent and experience with stock in the state of Washington and Madison, and Don Rintz, a Madison School teacher.

Dick was in the Fox Cities this week in an effort to give the area a greater stake in the Town Club venture. He's looking for actors who want a chance to obtain the very best training possible — a season in stock.

There are openings for 15 players and experience with stock in the state of Washington and Madison, and Don Rintz, a Madison School teacher.

ers adept at singing, dancing and — Robinson emphasizes — acting. The opportunities are for both lead and supporting roles.

A sampling of the opportunities includes the George M. Cohan part in "45 Minutes from Broadway" and the Ginger Rogers role in "Lady in the Dark" to a naive, straight from the country woman, a suave German baron to a comic newlywed couple in "Once Upon a Holiday."

Other open roles include a major, male role, a typical mother-in-law and a dumb blonde in the first show, Robinson said he'd be happy to step aside if a man of the world could be found to lead the middle show.

As in all stock companies, the pay will be in ratio to the importance of the role. The coin will be a minor consideration in relation to the experience.

Since auditions will necessitate some travel and since time is becoming a matter of essence, Robinson would appreciate letters of application mailed to him at 809 E. Johnson, Madison, 3. The letters, he said, should be complete in details of experience, training, etc. After the letters are written, he reserves the traditional prerogative of all producers and directors, "We'll call you Don't call us."

SOME MORNINGS I JUST DON'T SEEM TO KNOW MY OWN STRENGTH---

STEVE CANYON By MILTON CANIFF

AND I THOUGHT YOU WERE JUST A KID!

HIYU, YOU FOOLED ME! YOU AND JAKE WERE CONDUCTING A LONG-RANGE FLIRTATION...

ESKIMO WOMEN DON'T GROW VERY TALL, BUT WE'RE WOMEN!

I STOWED AWAY ON YOUR FLIGHT SO I COULD BE NEAR JAKE TINSACK...

AS A LAST DESPERATE MEASURE...

I WAS GOING TO MAKE HIM JEALOUS BY MAKING LOVE TO YOU!

COL. CANYON, WE'RE COMING IN FOR A LANDING AT TILLICUM BAY!

ADAM AMES By LOU FINE

I'D RATHER DO BUSINESS WITH A HYENA!

YOU'LL BE BACK, AMES. AND WHEN YOU DO--THE PRICE GOES UP!

DADDY! CAN YOU COME IN FOR A MINUTE, PLEASE?

I'VE GOT A REAL SECRET. AND I'M SMART. KNOW HOW SMART? I FIGURED OUT WHERE LOIS LIVES!

YOU HAVE?

RIVETS By GEORGE SIXTA

CAREFUL, BOY! YOU'RE FORGETTING--

NANCY By ERNIE BUSHMILLER

PLEASE LET ME KEEP HIM

NO

BUT HE LOVES ME

HE FOLLOWED ME HOME FOR MILES

I JUST COULDN'T LOSE HIM

THE RAIN ALWAYS BRINGS OUT THE ANGLE WORMS.

YOU'D THINK SOMEBODY AROUND HERE WOULD TAKE UP FISHING!

KERRY DRAKE By JOHNNY HART

DIRTY ROTTEN MISERABLE STINKING...

SPLASH

... IN REPOSSESSED AND USED MERCHANDISE

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: The word "regular," in the sense of "real" or "true," is colloquial. It is much better to say, "He was a real or true (not 'regular') pioneer."

Often mispronounced: Demimonde (women of doubtful reputation). Pronounce dem-i-mawnd, accent on first syllable.

Synonyms: Conquer, master, subdue, subjugate, surmount, win, vanquish, overcome, overpower, overthrow, defeat, crush, master, prevail over.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: discretion; cautious and correct judgment. (Pronounce diss-creh-shun, accent second syllable). "He should use more discretion in managing his employees."

Consumer Buying Bolsters Economy

BY SYLVIA PORTER

You, the individual spender in the United States, are now coming through magnificently for your country's prosperity — and since you account for a giant two-thirds of total spending in the United States, your performance this spring is brilliantly reassuring.

Your buying of clothes and gifts during the pre-Easter period made this a blooming spring indeed for retailers across the nation. No matter how the figures are "adjusted" for the late Easter or weather, March-April sales are smashing all records and most encouraging is your continued interest in upgrading the quality and price of your purchases. Even more significant to the economic outlook is your buying of big-ticket items. Auto sales are "suddenly torrid" in the words of the usually restrained Ward's Automotive Reports, and this is "shaping into a real summer boom" for the auto industry. The whole industry isn't ready yet to go along with General Motors' forecast of a seven million car year but Ward's says it's "leaning more towards" it.

No Flash in Pan
All indications are too; this is no flash in the pan. Families the country over have the current incomes to buy; month after month, personal incomes are climbing to peaks never before reached. They have the savings to buy; in the past year alone, liquid assets of America's consumers have soared $20 billion. They have the credit to buy; in this entire expansion, installment debts have risen only $1.5 billion, an extraordinarily modest rise and underlining the fact that consumers have the leeway to hike their on-the-cuff buying substantially. And the latest surveys indicate consumers today are "willing" as well as able to "purchase durable goods at a high rate in the months to come."

Government, a second massive spender in the United States, also is coming through for the economy's growth.

Federal Government spending is not rising at as rapid a rate as at this time in 1961 when the recovery was just getting under way and thus it is not providing as sharp a stimulus but government spending is still increasing and it will continue to increase. Whatever may be your attitude toward big-bigger-biggest spending by Washington, the reality is this is the trend and it's not going to be reversed under the Kennedy Administration. State and local government spending is climbing to all-time peaks month after month as well and this trend isn't going to be reversed either.

Only business, the third key spender in the United States, is not coming through on a sufficient scale so far to add major power to our economy's advance.

New Equipment
Business spending for new plants and equipment this year is estimated at $37.2 billion, up 8 per cent from 1961's level to a new record—but good as that seems, it's not good enough. The total is only a bit over the previous record established back in 1957, when we were a much smaller economy.

This type of spending is crucial and it's up to government to give industry the incentives as soon as possible to accelerate it. May more billions must be invested in modernization of U.S. factories and equipment if we're to be able to turn out quality goods at prices which can meet competition from foreign producers at home and abroad. Far more than is being done must be done in this sphere if our economy is to grow at a pace which will provide the jobs needed for our workers.

Tax Rebate Bill
The crushing of steel's attempt to raise prices to get the extra money to invest in new plants has now focused world attention on this challenge to us. The bill giving industries a tax rebate if they invest in new plants should be pushed through Congress. The

Some Fibroid Tumors Shouldn't be Removed

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: What is a fibroid tumor? How is it different from any other tumor? I have one in the womb, but my doctor advises against its removal. — Mrs. H.L.

I presume your doctor said not to remove it now, but to wait and see whether surgery becomes necessary. This is par for the course, and no reason for you to be either surprised or puzzled.

A tumor occurring in any part of the body is composed of the same type of tissue as is normally present here. The wall of the womb (or uterus) is made up of fibrous and muscular tissue. Hence a tumor in fibrous tissue is a "fibroid tumor," a very common occurrence.

However, should a cyst (or tumor) develop in the ovaries, which are of a quite different type of tissue, then it will be an "ovarian tumor."

Fibroids can be little, the size of a pea or smaller. They can also be big, growing to even 30 or 40 pounds. There may be only one, or many. There have been cases of a hundred or so.

Rapid Growth
On the inner wall of the uterus, fibroids are more likely to cause bleeding than when on the outer wall. On either inside or outside, fibroids may (or may not) cause symptoms or problems. Possible difficulties are painful menstruation, inability to conceive or difficulty in doing so, miscarriages, or lesser consequence. It is indeed quite common for fibroids to be detected in the course of routine pelvic examinations even though no symptoms are present. Fibroids aren't removed automatically, just because they are present. The question is whether or not they are doing any harm. Menstrual hemorrhage or intermittent "spotting" may dictate removal — which in general may mean hysterectomy.

Rapid growth of a fibroid is another sign indicating that it should be removed. Fibroids are not cancerous in themselves, and they are not likely to become cancerous. A few can, however, and that is one good reason for removing one that is growing rapidly.

Removal Desirable
If one of these tumors, even though benign as is usually true, becomes fairly large, the sheer size can be a nuisance from pressing on the bladder and interfering with the flow of urine (a factor in kidney infections) or pressing on the bowel and causing constipation.

So there are a variety of reasons for which removal of a fibroid tumor is wise. Where no such troubles result, the fibroid can be allowed to exist in peace, and simply watched in case it ever shows signs of acting up. In numerous cases after menopause a fibroid may stop growing or even become smaller, and nothing need ever be done about it.

General Merchandise Plans New Discount Store in Milwaukee

Plans for a 120,000 square foot "low-markup" store in West Allis were announced Tuesday by General Merchandise Co., a subsidiary of J. C. Penney Co.

The store will be located on about 25 acres of land at the northwest corner of Highway 100 (S. 108th St.) and W. Cleveland Ave.

The land acquisition by General Merchandise is the start of a larger program there, according to David Kritzik, board chairman. He gave no details in Tuesday's announcement.

The store presently planned for the site will feature a variety of household goods, clothing and groceries.

The store will be similar to the Treasure Island store near Appleton which was owned by a General Merchandise subsidiary before J. C. Penney bought out General Merchandise.

Kennedy Wants To Control Electorate

President Using Same Tactics as Franklin Roosevelt

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Just as President Franklin D. Roosevelt became impatient with the processes of the judiciary and asked for laws to permit him to "pack" the Supreme Court, President Kennedy now has started an analogous controversy which will occupy the attention of the Senate for the next two weeks. He wants to "pack" the electorate by ignoring the rules laid down in the Constitution concerning voter qualifications.

If Mr. Kennedy has his way, a rubber-stamp Congress could at the behest of a President pass a law making children of eleven years of age eligible to vote in federal elections.

The Constitution, of course, specifically gives only the states the power and right to fix the qualifications of voters. It reserves to Congress merely the right to alter state regulations as to the "times, places, and manner" of holding the elections themselves.

No Amendment

But Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, in a formal statement to a Senate subcommittee, declares he is tired of the bother of filing lawsuits and says, in effect, that it's easier just to get a law passed to set voter qualifications than to go through the prescribed process of amending the Constitution to take this right away from the states.

Now, it will be conceded that if there is any discrimination in any state because of race or color in preventing anyone from voting, then certainly the Constitution should be invoked to secure equal treatment. This, however, really isn't the issue, for the basic question is how the Constitution shall be enforced. The attorney general says that, when the Fifteenth Amendment was adopted in 1870, it became illegal to practice racial discrimination in the voting process, but "it is necessary today, 92 years later, to file lawsuit after lawsuit to make this constitutional command a reality."

Same Argument

The late President Roosevelt argued the same way. He wanted the justices of the Supreme Court to decide cases the way he wanted them decided, and he declared that he didn't care to wait until enough vacancies on the bench occurred to give him the opportunity to appoint new judges who would support his views.

The attorney general says that persons with a sixth-grade education should not be required to take a literacy test as a qualification for voting. He feels that completion of the sixth grade is sufficient without an examination. He could be right about this as a test in itself. Yet he ignores the specific obligation under the Constitution that if the rights of the states — which include the power to fix voter qualifications — are to be changed, then the Constitution itself must be amended by a two-thirds vote of both houses of Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the states. With amazing frankness, the attorney general proclaims the rule of expediency and the doctrine which has caused the overthrow of many an established government — the "end justifies the means." He says in his formal statement: "The question is not whether this bill is valid, but whether it would correct the situation."

Mr. Kennedy, further on in his statement, adds:

"Plainly Justified"

"I believe legislation, to accomplish directly what can be unquestionably done through litigation, is plainly justified under the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments."

But is this really true? Litigation can be instituted only when there is evidence of discrimination in denying the vote to anyone eligible. What the attorney general is proposing is that both whites and Negroes, for instance, be permitted to vote when they have completed a sixth-grade education. He is ignoring the fact that, if a state actually administers its laws fairly and doesn't permit either a white or a colored person to vote if a literacy test is given and the applicant fails, then there is no basis for litigation. He wants to skip that step and declare all persons literate by law if they have completed a sixth-grade education. Only the states, however, under the Constitution can legally establish this form of voter qualification.

Mr. Kennedy argues that article I, section 4, provides that Congress may at any time "make or alter the times, places, and manner of holding federal elections" and declares that "this plainly means that the state regulations on voting are subject to some limitations that may be imposed by Congress." He then concludes: "I think the bill would be a proper limitation under the provision."

Only State Power

But nowhere in the judicial history of the United States is there any decision which says so. The "times, places, and manner" of holding elections have always been construed to mean the setting or changing of the date and place where elections are held, and questions involving honesty in counting ballots in the election itself. The word "qualifications" appears three times in the Constitution, and in each instance refers only to the power of the states to prescribe the rules of eligibility for voting.

This whole maneuver is characteristic of the Kennedy administration. It has issued many an executive order that has yet to be tested by the Supreme Court. The argument always is offered that, because it is "cumbersome" to amend the Constitution, a short cut can be taken by having Congress act alone. George Washington foresaw this trend as likely to develop when he warned in his farewell address:

"Let there be no change by usurpation. For though this, in one instance, may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed."

Bids Cut Sewage Plant Expansion Cost Estimates

Previous $2 Million Figure Could Be Reduced by $500,000

The construction bids for expansion of Appleton's sewage treatment plant total more than $500,000 less than the estimated cost of $2 million.

Bids were opened by the board of public works Tuesday, and the total for the four phases of construction, based on the apparent low bids, came to $1,463,268.

Apparent low bidder for the general construction contract is Wilson and Taveres, Brookfield, Ill., on a bid of $1,326,115.

There were five other acceptable bids for the general contract, with bids ranging from $1,578,447 to $1,395,763. There was a seventh bid, which was rejected without being opened because the required bid bond was not enclosed.

Neenah Firm
Six other possible bidders for the general contract, who pre-qualified their firms for the job last month, failed to submit bids. Apparent low bidder for the electrical contract is Keil-Werner, Neenah, on its bid of $113,740. There was one other acceptable bid for $115,240.

A third electrical bid was rejected without being opened because the required bid bond was not included.

Apparent low bidder for both the plumbing and heating and ventilating contract is R. Wenzel Co., Appleton. The firm was the only one to bid on the plumbing contract. Its bid for the plumbing work was $12,143. Its bid for the heating and ventilating contract was $9,270.

There were four other bids for the heating and ventilating contract, ranging from $10,986 to $12,190.

Three other possible bidders for the plumbing and heating and ventilating contracts, who pre-qualified their firms last month, failed to submit bids.

To Be Tabulated
All bids were turned over to Greeley and Hanson, Chicago, for tabulation. The Chicago firm designed and engineered the sewage plant addition.

It is expected the board of public works will award contracts for the work on May 3 and the council will approve them on May 4. The expansion will include two more primary settling tanks and

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—What is there about world's fairs that seems to call for exposure of the female form?

It beats me. All I know is that the undraped babe is as much a part of a world's fair as science exhibits and cotton candy.

What do folks remember about the Chicago Fair of 1893? Little Egypt and her hootchy-kootchy. Who was the star of the 1933 Century of Progress? Sally Rand and her fans.

Now, Altogether
The Century 21 Exposition was not going to be caught napping. Operators on the glittering show street have come up with new and ingenious ways to present girls in the near-altogether. The customers are lining up for tickets.

As yet, no star like Egypt or Sally has appeared. But then, the fair has just opened.

Nudity on show street ranges from the ridiculous to the faintly sublime. Best of the shows is Barry Ashton's revue at Gracie Hansen's Paradise. This is a 600-seat theater-restaurant fronted by a Sophie Tucker-type hostess whose previous experience was producing PTA shows.

Beauteous Babes
Ashton presents his usual blend of beauteous babes, stunning costumes and well-drilled dances. A special nod toward the fair's outer-space theme is offered by the "Planet Eve" ballet. Two astronauts land on the planet Venus to be greeted by inhabitants clothed merely in rhinestone G-strings. Stirring stuff.

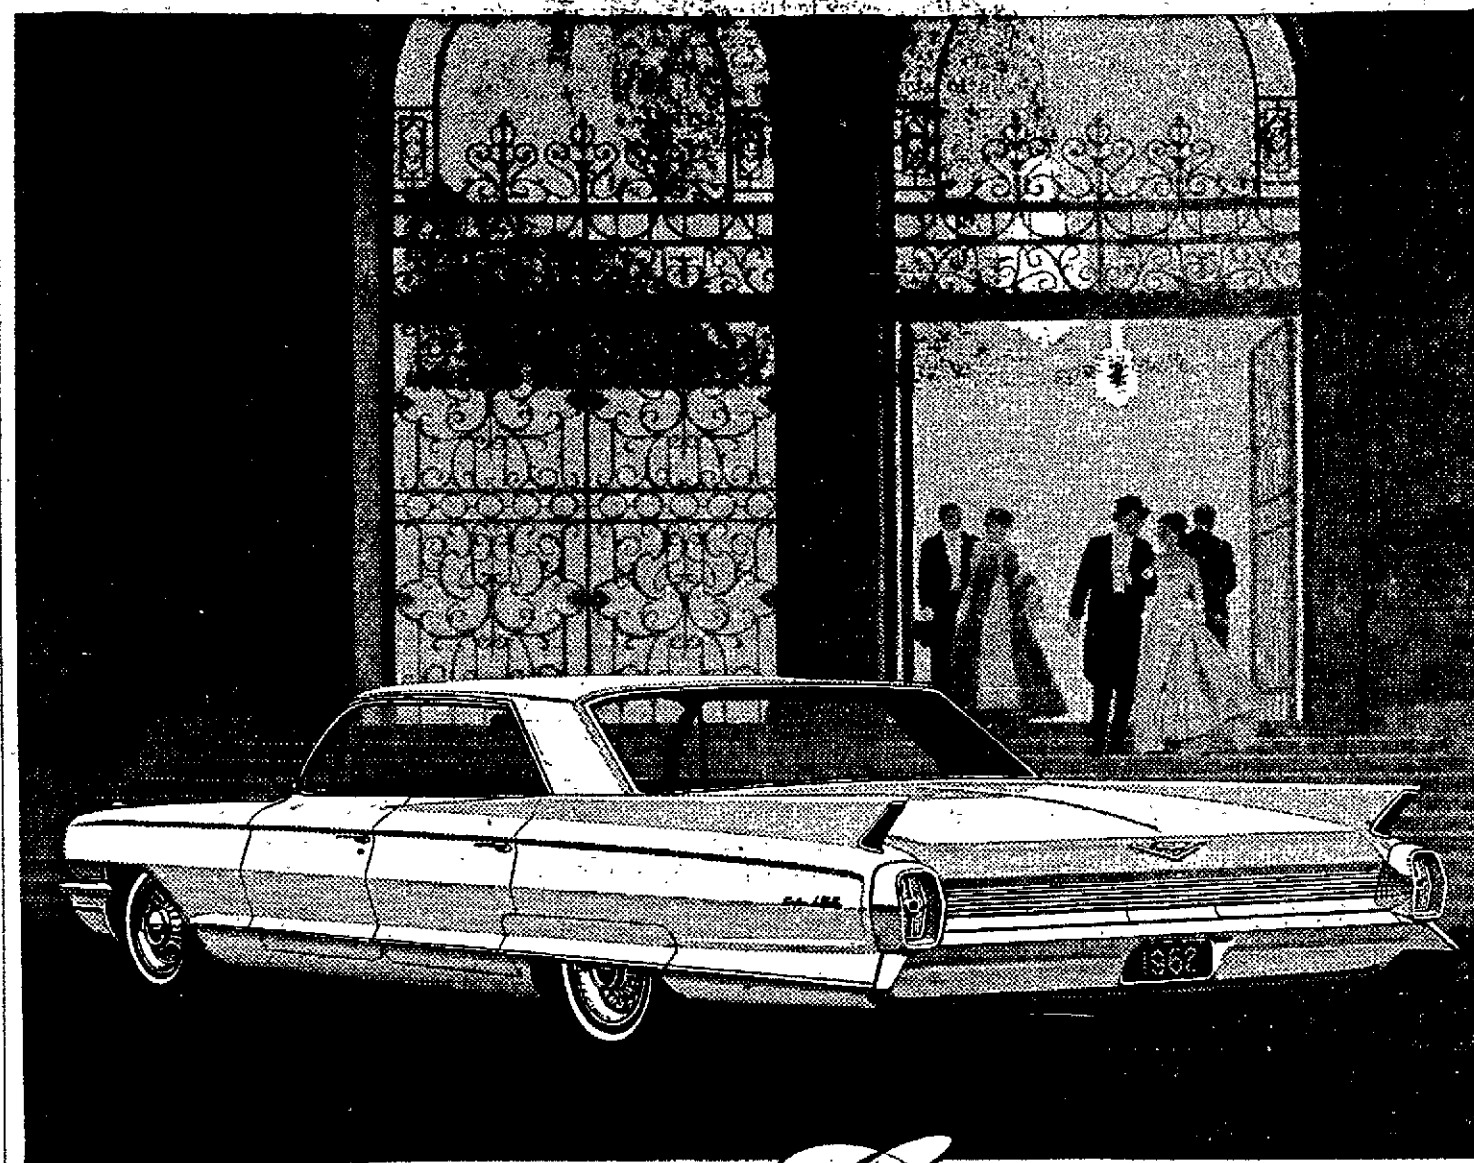

A variation of the familiar theme is offered by "Backstage, USA." This is a gimmick devised by longtime Hollywood dance producer Leroy Prinz, in which showgirls are presented both on stage and off in their native habitat. The off-stage area provides reason for the cuties to be seen changing costumes, taking showers and doing other things that might provide interest for backstage peepers.

"Girls of the Galaxy"
Then there are the "Girls of the Galaxy," which reduces the sideshow attraction to the lowest denominator. These are a series of lame tableaux in which scantiest of trunks. All these have met the approval of the special theater supervisory board, appointed by the mayor of Seattle to safeguard morals. Censored Scrutiny

At least two attractions managed to escape the censorial scrutiny and still present spicy shows. One is the "Paris, Spec-tacular," a French import composed of famous historical figures and nudes, all of them waxed. The feature attraction in front of the show is the much-publicized queen of the Nile. Another nude show is offered by a Hollywood import, "Les Poupees de Paris." These are highly talented but scantily clad three-footers—perhaps the only puppet show advertised "for adults only." Those are the bare facts about the Century 21 Exposition.

Even the most brilliant occasions seldom surpass in splendor the Cadillac journey that takes you there.

Eight Young Women To Compete May 5 For Title of Miss Appleton

Girls Who Will Compete for the Miss Appleton Title May 5 at Appleton High School talked over new fashions when they met this week. Above are Miss Donna Tepper, Miss Jane Janssen and Miss Rosemary Vanevenhoven.

Finalists in the Miss Appleton Pageant have been announced by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce. Eight young women will vie for the title at 8 p.m. May 5 in the Appleton High School auditorium. The winner will receive a $300 scholarship and the right to compete for the Miss Wisconsin title at Kenosha in July.

Candidates for the title are Miss Barbara Casper, Miss Jane Dillon, Miss Stephanie Giese, Miss Janie Janssen, Miss Judy Johnson, Miss Diane Kurtzheim, Miss Donna Tepper and Miss Rosemary Vanevenhoven.

Miss Casper is a 20-year-old freshman at Marquette University, Milwaukee. She is taking a speech and drama course and plans a speech education career. Miss Casper enjoys horseback riding and singing and has performed with Attic Theater. Her talent offering will be a dramatic reading.

Miss Jane Dillon will perform a dance as her talent specialty at the Miss Appleton Pageant. The 20-year-old is an Appleton High School graduate and is a sophomore at Lawrence College, taking a biology and chemistry course. Miss Dillon is a 1960-61 record holder for her performance with the Lawrence swim team and also enjoys golf.

Lawrence Sophomore Miss Stephanie Giese, also a Lawrence College sophomore, is a native of Dundee, Ill. The young lady's major course of study is Spanish. She likes to sail, swim, model and ride horseback. Her talent presentation will be a monologue.

Swimming and music are the

Judging in the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored Miss Appleton Pageant is based on talent, beauty and personality. Above are entrants Miss Stephanie Giese, Miss Judy Johnson, Miss Barbara Casper, Miss Diane Kurtzheim and Miss Jane Dillon. The girls will have a brunch with the judges at noon the day of the contest. The pageant will be at 8 p.m. at Appleton High school.

Appleton High School. She is taking a speech correction and speech therapy course at the university. Her talent presentation will be a humorous reading. Her hobbies are music, swimming and golf.

A hairstyling presentation will be given by Miss Rosemary Vanevenhoven, Kaukauna, during the talent competition. The 19-year-old Kaukauna resident was graduated from Kaukauna High School and Wisconsin College of Cosmetology, Green Bay. Her interests are swimming, tennis, sewing, dancing and skating.

In addition to the Miss Appleton title, the pageant winner will also receive gifts from several merchants. The judging is based 50 per cent on talent, 25 per cent on beauty and 25 per cent on personality. The girls will have a brunch Saturday noon with the judges. They will appear at the pageant in evening gowns, sports attire and swim suits.

Chairman of the pageant is Don Long, Master of Ceremonies will be Don Smith and pageant director is Jack Burroughs. The Appleton Jaycettes have charge of chaperones and are assisting with pageant plans.

Reports Given at KD Circle Meeting

Mrs. Andrew G. Sharp reported on the pre-Easter rummage sale when the Infant Welfare Circle of The King's Daughters met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Treat Thomas, route 1, Menasha. She also announced that the fall sale will take place early in October.

Reports were given by Mrs. Herbert F. Hackworthy, Mrs. Arthur C. Denney, Mrs. Karl A. Schuetter and Mrs. F. Stansbury Young.

Mrs. Potter V. Park gave a report of the Council of the King's Daughters and announced a joint meeting of all circles will be held at 8 p.m. May 1 in the Court House Annex. A possible combined project will be discussed. She also told of the organization of The Chalice Circle.

Mrs. Ralph A. McGowan and Mrs. William E. Buchanan reported on area meetings at which a new state project was considered. The organization now maintains a home for the aged at Sheboygan.

The cocktail hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 8 p.m.

Give Little Girls Gift Of Pearls

It's all very well for fond grown-ups to bring toys and games to children of all ages. But when a little girl reaches six or so, she is usually becoming quite fashion-conscious and serious about her appearance.

Thus the stage is set for grandmothers and grandpas, godparents or family friends to present a lasting touch of grown-up luxury at an age when the seed of appreciation can be planted and is sure to grow.

Dress-Up Aids Training
A cultured pearl grows to maturity in an oyster, but a little girl grows up in a social atmosphere, with many occasions to wear dainty necklaces more and more. At the beginning she knows they are for special dress-up times parties, visiting, holidays when the velvet or organdy dress means a don't-run-about-and-get-all-messed-up day.

Just as they learn to take care of books and toys, so moppets can learn to take care of jewelry. With sweet seriousness they will be attentive and cooperative to your suggestions as to the care of a lustrous string of cultured pearls.

Take Care
The three points of care, which is part of every girl's education, are: don't pull on the necklace, or twist it about carelessly; wipe it off with a damp cloth frequently and polish dry with a soft cloth; and always keep it in its velvet or silk-lined box when not wearing it.

As little girls grow into young ladies, the fun of being a doting generous grown-up increases, for by adding on more pearls every year, the babyish gold chain evolves into a debilitate necklace most suitable for a teenager's "important" jewelry. And at graduation time cultured pearls continue to be appropriate gifts in the form of brooches or rings.

More Women Attend, Benefit From College

This is a time of year — just a few months before the nation's high schools hold their graduation ceremonies — when some parents are still asking themselves about the value of sending a daughter to college.

After all (so the reasoning goes), college education or not, most girls will marry soon after high school, and then devote the next 20 to 30 years of their lives to raising a family.

Although feelings on the subject of girls and college may be divided, the fact is that more and more families are sending their daughters to college each year, and that an increasing number of these girls are obtaining a full college education. The trend is clear from the statistics: in 1950, nearly 104,000 women received a bachelor's degree; in 1960, latest year for which information is available, bachelor's degrees were awarded to well over 139,000 women.

Women Have No Doubts
Anyone with misgivings about a college education for a daughter will want to know that women graduates themselves have no such doubts: In addition, women graduates, more often than not, put their advanced education to use soon after graduation. This is borne out by a study of the National Science Foundation which traces the fortunes of a large number of recent college graduates, and whose objective was to see what these young people were doing two years after they had received their degree.

To begin with, a large majority of the women graduates were working; only 20 per cent had "retired" to a homemaking career. Most of the working women were employed in jobs whose professional nature obviously calls for the kind of knowledge and skills that are learned in college — teaching, for example, scientific research and laboratory work, and advanced nursing. Some of the college women also had begun positions in business firms; and were working in stores or offices; here a college education will stand in good stead if they plan to stay on and build a career in business.

Teaching Attracts Women
Since teaching attracts more college women than any other profession, it will interest parents and daughters to know that this study showed women received higher beginning salaries as teachers than in most other jobs, with the exception of women chemists, pharmacists and mathematicians.

Incidentally, another indication of the value of a college education for women is that most of were employed in jobs whose professional nature obviously calls for the kind of knowledge and skills that are learned in college — teaching, for example, scientific research and laboratory work, and advanced nursing. Some of the college women also had begun positions in business firms; and were working in stores or offices; here a college education will stand in good stead if they plan to stay on and build a career in business.

Set Up Savings Program
For most families, the answer to financing a college education seems to be a definite financial program, particularly one that starts early. Such a program would be based on regular savings with perhaps the intention of paying part of current costs out of family income at the time a youngster is in college.

Many families incorporate life insurance in their college financing plans, either in the form of special educational policies that have been developed recently, or through some other type of policy on the father's life, bought with the education of a child in mind.

The effect of these policies would be to provide the family with funds for college, even though the breadwinner might not live to see his youngster through college.

Introduction to Brother Does Not Give Invitation to Home

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Last summer I introduced a casual friend to my unmarried brother. They hit it off well together and have become a steady twosome. My brother lives in an apartment a few blocks from us so it is convenient for him to pick her up at our place. I told Geraldine to come over whenever she feels like it.

Now I see I made a big mistake. She drives over in the morning for breakfast—usually in her nightgown. She throws a coat over a flimsy negligee and that's that. She pulls a chair right up to the breakfast table and carries on a conversation with my husband—talking right past me. He doesn't take his eyes off her.

Geraldine is here when my husband comes home for dinner. They have a drink together while I'm in the kitchen cooking. When my brother arrives the three of them have a ball.

I'm getting fed up on this arrangement. How can I unwind it?—Too Thick

Dear Too Thick: Inviting people to "come over whenever they feel like it" opens the flood gates for all sorts of trouble. Now, nothing short of a girl-to-girl talk will work. Tell Geraldine that her charming company interferes with your housework and from now on you'll invite her over when you can do justice to a visit. This will undoubtedly chill the relationship but I'm sure you won't mind seeing a great deal less of her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your opinion. Maybe I'm the one who is crazy. Or can it be that I have no sense of humor?

Recently I attended a card party at the home of a friend, who is supposed to be a member of the socially elite. This is what happened. After the cards and refreshments, she brought out a tin can on which was pasted a homemade label. It read "Please Help The Mentally Ill. Give or I'll kill you."

The guests reached into their purses and every woman present dropped in some coins or pushed a dollar bill through the slot. When the other women left I turned to the hostess and asked "What is that money really for? She replied with a perfectly straight face. "I started it as a gag and I've had a barrel of fun. I've also collected a lot of money. I'm going to buy a new bedspread."

I think this is the height of crudeness. My husband thought it was funny. What's your opinion?—E. and M.

Dear E and M: I think it's appalling. Mental illness is nothing to joke about. The hostess is a clod.

What is even worse, however, is that many guests probably did not recognize it as a gag. They thought they were donating to help the mentally ill.

DEAR ANN: My head is going around in circles. I was engaged to my childhood sweetheart just before he went into the service. I never went with any other fellow except Tim. He's been away for 11 months.

Last Christmas I visited relatives in Connecticut. My uncle has each child in your family needs — and deserves — your undivided attention just for fun, occasionally. This is especially true of the older ones, who may be unintentionally neglected in the whirl of necessary details involved in caring for babies. Get a sitter to take over, and enjoy a free hour or so alone with Big Sister. Manage this as often as you can.

Easy Cartridge Pleats

Ideas on the uptake for crisply cool summer curtains make them as easy as possible to care for. Here's one that gives them smart cartridge pleats, without complicating the sewing or the ironing. The pleats aren't sewed in—they form as the curtain is hung with rings that grasp the top edges—and the whole curtain flattens to be washed and ironed.

Smaller scallops for the pleats are cut between larger ones. Exact measurements for scallops of both sizes depend somewhat on the fabric and the window width, but a saucer is usually about right to draw around for the larger scallops, and a tiny plate or demitasse saucer for the smaller ones. After the curtains are finished, fold the pleats and lap one side of the back of each pleat over the other side, then press open the grasping end of the ring and attach it to hold the two folded, overlapped edges. This isn't at all difficult to do—the kind of ring that needn't be sewed on does the trick of special pleating while it readies the curtain for hanging.

a fellow working for him who home. What shall I do?—Whirling came along one night to "round Dervish out the party." It wasn't even considered a date because he knew I was engaged. We got along swell (lots of laughs) and the next day he came ice-fishing with us. To make a long story short we had a great time together—purely platonic. Then he kissed me good-bye and everything changed. I haven't seen him since, but his letters thrill me more than my fiancée's. If I could spend tomorrow evening with one of these two fellows it wouldn't be Tim. Tim expects to marry me when he comes.

Dear Dervish: You aren't ready for marriage—to anyone. When Tim comes home return his ring and date other fellows. 'Dining Out in Any Language' Guide to Foreign Food Adventures

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

There's an inexpensive, compact paperback that should be a MUST for all globetrotters off to Europe this summer. It's really a concise and unusual dictionary of foreign menu terms translated into English . . . called "Dining Out in Any Language." It was compiled and written by famous cookbook author and world traveler Myra Waldo.

It should be a boon to the traveler on short tours that schedule brief stops from one country to the next in a limited vacation period. It's the answer for the tourist who believes that food of a city or a region is as important an adventure as sightseeing.

A natural for those travelers on the Post-Crescent Holiday in Europe . . . set for July 7 to July 28 with a schedule that sweeps from the Rhine valley to the Riviera and includes stops in such cities as Rome, Venice, Florence, Paris, Lyons and Heidelberg . . . this pocket-sized edition not only translates foreign food but lists and locates restaurants along the way.

Mrs. Waldo even includes a glossary of breakfast terms in nine different languages. This is so the American tripper can be sure of getting both service and his or her usual orange juice, coffee and toast.

"Dining Out" is interesting reading even for stay-at-homes. The author writes with sparkle about the eating habits of the various peoples, their favorite food and drink. She also explains how much and when to tip as well as where to go.

Thus, in the spirit of adventure in foreign foods, we offer several foreign recipes

. . . duckling prepared in the Italian manner . . . the popular English Trifle . . . a French menu of Pepper Steaks, Browned Rice and Glazed Onions such as can be found in Paris.

Duck Italiana
4 to 5 pound duckling
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
spaghetti sauce with mushrooms (15½ ounce can) ¾ cup beef bouillon
¼ teaspoon dried basil
¼ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon salt

Have duck cut into quarters. Heat oven to 325 degrees. Put duckling, ready for pan, skin side up on rack of roaster. Do not cover, baste nor add water. Only season with salt and pepper; bake for two hours. When baked, remove from oven.

Place spaghetti sauce with mushrooms (canned), bouillon, basil, oregano and salt in large skillet. Heat to boiling point, stirring occasionally.

Add duck. Reduce heat and cook gently in skillet for 30 minutes. Place duck on hot platter; pour sauce over duck. Serve with cooked spaghetti, garnished with parsley.

Classic Dessert for English high tea (we'd call it a light supper) is a trifle served with cups of piping hot tea. A trifle is a handsome dessert combining lady fingers . . . filled with jam and soaked in orange juice . . . with a creamy custard. This one is topped with whipped cream and slivered almonds.

English Trifle
12 lady fingers, split
¾ cup apricot jam
¾ to 1 cup orange juice
1 package custard dessert mix
2½ cups milk
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons toasted slivered almonds

Rum may be substituted for orange juice, if desired in the above recipe.

Spread the lady fingers with jam. Put back together sandwich style and stand around sides of a one-quart souffle mold. Soak lady fingers with orange juice or rum.

Combine custard dessert and milk in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat; cool until tepid. Pour into souffle dish, inside circle of lady fingers. Chill until firm.

Whip cream; pile into center of mold. Sprinkle with slivered almonds and serve.

French Pepper Steaks
4 individual steaks
seasoned meat tenderizer
4 teaspoons cracked black pepper
2 tablespoons margarine

Sprinkle both sides of meat evenly with seasoned tenderizer. To insure penetration and retain meat juices, pierce meat deeply with a kitchen fork at approximately half-inch intervals. Let stand at room temperature for 30 minutes, or cover loosely and refrigerate overnight.

Press cracked pepper into both sides of meat with heel of hand. Pan broil steaks in margarine in hot skillet (or electric fry pan preheated to 425 degrees) until crusty golden brown on outside and pink inside. Fry about one and a half minutes on each side. Do not

Parents Tell Betrothal of Daughter

The engagement of Miss Joan Young and James Besaw has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Young, 1424 E.

Northland Ave. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. Oliver Besaw, Oshkosh. Miss Young, a graduate of Appleton High School, is a sophomore at Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh. Mr. Besaw was graduated from Appleton High School and is employed at the Universal Foundry, Oshkosh. A wedding date has not been set.

overcook. Pour juices from skillet over steaks before serving.

Browned Rice
2 tablespoons fat
2 cups rice
1 onion, peeled and diced
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 cups beef broth
1 tablespoon seasoned salt

Heat fat in saucepan; add rice and onions. Brown, stirring often. Stir in remaining ingredients.

Cover pan tightly and bring to brisk boil; turn heat very low and simmer for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and steam, covered, for five minutes.

Glazed Onions
1 pound white pearl onions, peeled
2 tablespoons shortening
4 teaspoons sugar
dash pepper

Immerse onions in boiling water and cook uncovered for 15 minutes, until tender. While onions are cooking, melt shortening in saucepan and add sugar and pepper, stirring well. Add onions and cook slowly until golden brown. Turn frequently so they glaze on all sides.

Duckling Italiana Served with spaghetti represents one type of delicious Italian food. With green beans parmesan, a green salad and, finally, assorted cheeses with fruits and espresso coffee, an Italian-style dinner is complete. However, Italy boasts many kinds of cooking . . . rice replaces the familiar spaghetti as a staple in the far north . . . polenta made of cornmeal also is a great favorite . . . gnocchi (potato or cornmeal dumplings) is a specialty food of Rome as is fettucine, thin, long noodles drenched in butter.

Browned Rice and Glazed onions are perfect go-togethers with these French Pepper Steaks. Served with a crisp tossed salad, the dinner combines the touch of both the Montmartre and Champs Elysees of Paris in a truly Gallic meal.

PET DOCTOR
By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.
Q. My Belgian Griffon was six months old when I discovered she had an enlarged heart. Do you know of any way to make her more comfortable? The Countess de Beaumont, New York City.
A. Research into canine heart disease has advanced greatly in the last few years. A considerable amount of original research is being conducted at the University of Pennsylvania. While taking the blood pressure and electrocardiographs of dogs is not as simple as with humans, because the animals are apprehensive, it can be done. In certain selected cases, open heart surgery has been performed successfully on dogs. This has prolonged their lives and eased the symptoms of heart disease. As with human beings, such surgery is not without hazards. Without knowing considerably more about your particular case, I can only suggest that you follow the advice of the veterinarians whom you have consulted. (Dr. Moller will send books on pet care to readers submitting best questions. Mail yours on a postcard in care of this paper.)

Swiss Party Meal Begins With Leek Soup

When most of us think of Swiss foods, we think of cheese and chocolates. Just recently, another Swiss-inspired product was introduced in America — famous soups which for so many years have been made in Switzerland.

For the European market. Seven of the soups are now being made for the American market.

For a family holiday dinner, Swiss style, start with Cream of Leek Soup, a soup particularly liked in the canton closest to France. Team with it a main course that includes a Crown Roast of Pork filled with Apple-Prune Stuffing, new potatoes and fresh asparagus to make the meal festive and European. For just the right dessert, choose Swiss Gries Pudding with Raspberry syrup spooned over it.

Crown Roast of Pork
3-pound pork crown roast
Salt
Pepper
Apple-prune stuffing
Season pork with salt and pepper. Cover bone ends with foil. Place, bone ends up, in well-greased roasting pan. Roast in 325-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes per pound, basting frequently.

Fill center of roast with Apple-Prune Stuffing for the last 20 to 30 minutes of roasting time.

If all dressing will not fit into crown, arrange remainder around roast; baste once with pork drippings.

To serve: Arrange roast and dressing on serving platter. Remove foil from bone ends; cover ends with paper ruffles if desired.

Apple-Prune Stuffing

1 cup uncooked prunes
1 green cooking apple
1 tart red apple
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 slices white bread
½ cup margarine
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon marjoram

Cook prunes according to package directions. Remove pits; cut prunes into small pieces. Peel and core green apple; core red apple. Coarsely chop apples; toss with lemon juice.

Cube bread, removing crusts if desired. Melt two tablespoons margarine in skillet; saute bread cubes in margarine until lightly browned on all sides; remove from pan. Melt remaining margarine; add onions and celery; saute until celery is almost tender, about five minutes. Add prunes, apples, bread cubes, salt, pepper and marjoram. Toss lightly. Fill center of roast.

Gries Pudding

1 quart milk
½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup cream farina
½ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites

Bring milk and raisins to full boil, stirring frequently. Stir in cream farina and salt. Cook over medium heat five minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and allow to cool slightly.

Meanwhile beat egg yolks. Gradually beat in sugar, then the one-fourth cup milk and vanilla.

Beat until slightly thickened. Blend in farina mixture in four or five additions. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form when beater is raised. Fold into chilled farina mixture. Spoon into dessert dishes and serve with Raspberry Syrup. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

10-ounce package frozen raspberries

½ cup water
1 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar
Thaw raspberries; boil in small saucepan two to three minutes; press through fine sieve. Combine raspberry liquid with water, corn syrup, lemon juice and sugar in a 1-quart saucepan; boil slowly nine to 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool; cover; chill thoroughly. Serve with Gries Pudding or other favorite dessert.

From Switzerland Comes the inspiration for this fine meal. It begins with Cream of Leek Soup, a new packaged product recently introduced in the Fox Cities area. Then comes a Crown Roast of Pork with an apple-prune stuffing and for dessert a Gries Pudding topped with Raspberry Syrup.

When Young Fry Balk at Breakfast, Use Strategy

Worried at the way youngsters to-eat cereal, a banana for a turn down breakfast? If so, try rocket body and tail fins and a space strategy and watch young sprinkling of quick strawberry-flavored mix for colorful space astronauts go into eating orbit. Make a rocket ship with ready-dust. Try easy-to-make pink pancakes in the name of flying saucers. Give oatmeal a rosy hue and dress it up with miniature marshmallows and a crown of ready-to-eat cereal for Space Queens in the family. Quick strawberry-flavored mix is that handy product that makes strawberry milk by merely stirring in the mix with a spoon. Put favorite ready-to-eat cer-eat in oval bowl. Sprinkle with quick strawberry-flavored mix. Slice banana in half lengthwise, centering one slice lengthwise over cereal; halve remaining slice at end of bowl. Serve with milk. Space Queen Prepare rolled oats according to package directions, adding one-quarter cup quick strawberry-flavored mix with each cup rolled oats. Put cereal in round bowl. Place shredded ready-to-eat cereal half way around edge of bowl for "hair." Use miniature marshmallows for features. Serve with milk.

Flying Saucers
To recipe on box of your favorite pancake mix, add one-quarter cup quick strawberry flavored mix and one teaspoon lemon juice for each cup pancake mix. Cook as directed. Serve with butter and syrup.

Space-Minded Youngsters will soar at breakfast time and eat heartily if the usual oatmeal, ready-to-eat cereals or pancakes are served in terms of rocketships, flying saucers or Space Queen specials. Quick strawberry-flavored mix supplies the attractive color for all three breakfast suggestions.

SEAMS TO ME By Patricia Scott

When I wrote a column on how to convert plain sheets into fitted sheets, eight months ago, I didn't know I was opening up a can of peas! Since then I've received hundreds of letters from readers asking me to repeat my instructions because they had misplaced the original article, and from others who missed it and were told about it by friends.

Frankly, I never before realized that so many women were interested in this, and I'm delighted to find that I chose such a popular subject. So, here we go again, one more time!

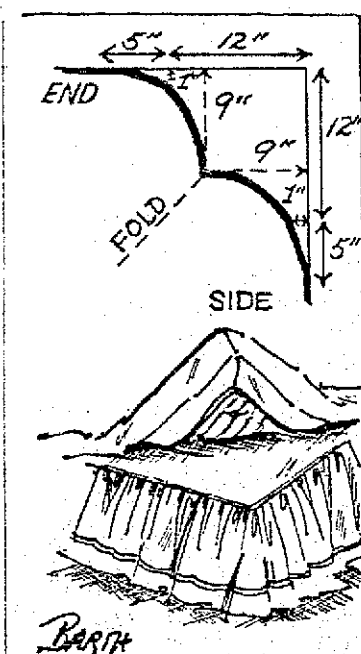

The only difficult part of the whole procedure is making the paper pattern from which you cut the four curved corners. So, follow the diagram and measurements carefully.

To get dimensions for cutting plain sheet measure the length, width and depth of your mattress first. Then, add twice the depth measurement plus six inches to the width measurement of the mattress.

The third step is to add twice the depth measurement plus six inches to the length measurement of the mattress. Then cut your sheet, using these measurements. If you wish, you can leave the selvage on.

To make fitted corners follow

From Plain To Contour

the diagram, making a paper pattern for the fitted corners. The heavy curved line you get by measuring it from the square corner is your cutting line. Cut paper along this curved line, place pattern on all four corners of sheet and cut. Be sure to mark the fold line on the sheet.

If there are no selvages on the

A spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said in answer to a question:

"All tests will be announced. The plan is to announce each test individually."

Before the recent series of underground tests in Nevada was begun, the government said that not all tests would be announced after they were held.

sheet, make a narrow hem down the two long sides.

With right sides together, fold the corner on the fold mark. See that the curved edges match, and pin the fold. With bias binding, bind the folded edge, starting at the outside raw edge and then allowing an extra two inches of binding to hang loose when you finish binding the fold towards the inside of the sheet. Continue stitching the binding strip so it is stitched in half lengthwise.

Finish each short end of the sheet with binding, by starting seven or eight inches from the bound fold edge on the long straight side and continue binding all around the curved edges, the straight short end and down seven or eight inches on the other long side. Do this to both ends.

Your new fitted sheet should tuck under about three inches. (Copyright, 1962)

Rules Necessary to Child's Development

BY ANGELO PATRI

Nothing happens suddenly in the growth of a child. His growth and behavior are of long, slow, little by little, orderly processes. He grows in accordance with the laws of his nature. One of them relates to the repetition of experiences. What is often repeated becomes his way of growth; that is, what he does again and again becomes a ruling habit. That is why parents and teachers have to watch for any indication of a break from the orderly progress of a child's growth. When a bedtime is set, for example, there can be only a rare exception in its observance. Only something quite out of the ordinary is permitted to break that habit.

Let Him Stay

"Oh, let him stay up a few minutes. What difference does it make?" says Grandma. "I only come to see him once in a while."

It does make a difference. Once the child learns that he can escape bedtime he will be on the alert to escape again and before long bedtime is any time that is convenient for him. That is not good for him. Not only does it break the progress of a good health habit, it teaches him that the rules can be broken. If bedtime can be at his convenience, and important matters are in- why not mealtime, school time, Sunday School hour, anything that shocks him? Stick to the rules once they are set. Of course only important matters are occasions for rules. Matters are occasions for rules and important matters are im- portant. Mothers are sometimes shocked to find that the once obedient and cooperative child is no longer so, but wilful, disobedient, careless attitude was set and the child rebellious. "All of a sudden he changed," she says. It is very much easier to prevent a child from getting into wrong attitudes and bad habits than it is to correct them once they have been set. It is much easier to train a child into right habits than to correct an adolescent boy or girl helplessness, are matters that re- who has become careless of law late to character formation and order. It is not always easy, nor is it pleasant to insist upon a child's happiness and successfully following the rules. Yet rising on a time, bathing and dressing, hold to them for the child's own promptness at mealtime, general sake.

Royal Order Inspired Gourmet Lobster Dish

CHICAGO (AP) — The boss and his wife are coming to dinner and you'd like to serve something memorable. But what? If the choice were left to Chef John Louis Kaufmann, he would recommend as an entree his Lobster Jean Louis, a gourmet dish he originated early in his long career as a culinary artisan on three continents. And he would precede and follow it with dishes and wines to bring out its exotic flavor.

Kaufmann, executive chef of the plush Camellia House, the exclusive Club Internationale and the salty Cape Cod Room in the Drake Hotel, devised the lobster dish while working in the Chepert Seramis Hotel in Cairo.

The King of Egypt had invited him to prepare a dinner for the Kings of Belgium and Romania and Mohandas K. Gandhi of India, to be served in the royal villa near the pyramids. The Swiss-born cook blended the seafood, vegetables, fruits, nuts and seasonings into an entree he called Lobster Jean Louis.

The intervening years have thinned the ranks of royalty but his creation still remains a regal dish, says the chef whose career includes service in the kitchens of the Carlton-St. Moritz in Lausanne, the Italie in Paris, the Grand in Nice and the Bristol in Vienna.

Lobster Jean Louis
4 whole lobsters
2 quarts boiling water
1 ounce vinegar
2 ounces butter
1 teaspoon chopped shallots
½ cup diced apple
¼ cup diced eggplant
1 teaspoon chopped mushrooms
1 teaspoon white raisins, blanched
1 ounce brandy
8 ounces cream sauce
1 egg yolk
1/3 teaspoon curry powder salt to taste
1 teaspoon chutney, chopped
1 tablespoon shredded coconut
Cook four whole lobsters (about one and three-fourths pounds each) for five minutes in two quarts boiling water with one ounce vinegar. Then take lobster out, remove meat from shell; cut and dice meat.
Place lobster meat in pan with butter, shallots, apple, eggplant and mushrooms. Simmer for 15 minutes over low heat. Add diced raisins, mixing thoroughly, then blend in the brandy.
Thicken with cream sauce; add egg yolk, stirring constantly to blend. If you have trouble mixing in egg yolk, mix small amount of hot mixture with yolk first, then add to mixture. After mix-

New Phase Set For Training Handicapped

Day Care Program For Retarded Children Begun

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A new phase of care and training for mentally retarded children will be launched in Wisconsin soon in an experimental way.

The state department of welfare is putting the finishing touches up on standards of operation of a new kind of day care program for severely retarded children in their own communities, under the sponsorship of local governments, or private non-profit organizations.

The program was authorized on a limited basis by the 1961 legislature, as a possible method of reducing the pressure for admission upon the heavily over-crowded state colonies for the care of retarded children.

The objective will be to enroll in local day centers such young children who are too severely handicapped to be eligible in the increasing number of local school classes for the special training problems of retarded.

Modest Start

The program will be modest in its original stages, but Schmidt said if it grows larger than expected during the next year he may ask for additional funds from an emergency appropriation. The legislature set up a grant system offering a 40 per cent reimbursement for such programs by localities or approved private organizations.

The welfare department has already had inquiries from several Supermarkets captured 30 per cent of the over-all tobacco products marketed in the S. in 1960, according to Food Topics magazine. They netted an average increase in sales of 5.9 per cent over the previous year.

Manufacturers of tobacco products backed up these and all their retail outlets with a $35 million expenditure for national newspaper advertising in that year.

There has been a considerable interest in such programs on the part of organizations of handicapped children, which have also pushed the legislature hard in recent years for additional assistance to local school systems for the financing of special classes for the handicapped.

Inside Labor

Roy Reuther Leads Get Out Vote Drive

BY VICTOR RIESEL
WASHINGTON, D. C. — You can run across the brothers Reuther on a global front almost anywhere from the Rio Grande to the Rhine. Usually it's either the oldest, Walter, or the youngest, Victor. If you want the brother in the middle — Roy Reuther — you have to look Stateside. Right here on the Potomac, in fact. Early each weekday morning he is at his desk in labor's political nerve center on the sixth floor of the national AFL-CIO headquarters — directing and programming a drive to get 20 million citizens registered and 37 million voters to the polls, especially in the big cities where working people live.

This sprawling assignment of Roy Reuther's — shyest and most unassuming and unpublicized of the three brothers — won't make headlines until the morning after next election day.

Then it may develop that Roy Reuther's "operation registration" has affected national politics by swinging millions to the polls to vote on the careers of such men as Nelson Rockefeller, Richard Nixon, George Romney, Gov. Pat Brown and New York's Mayor Wagner. Also President Kennedy's strength in Congress. There are at least 50 districts where the Democrats or Republicans won by from 1 to 5 per cent.

Big City Vote

Roy Reuther points out that, strangely enough, it is in the big cities that people stay away from the polls in droves. In New York, for example, 2,254,000 citizens of voting age did not cast a ballot in the last Presidential election. This is 42 per cent of the adult population there. In Chicago's Cook County, 823,000 citizens did not vote. John Kennedy, remember, took Illinois by less than 9,000 votes.

Reuther, whose official title, now that he has been lendleased by the Auto Workers to the national AFL-CIO, is National Director of Voter Registration. He says that 25 per cent of the people did not vote in Los Angeles County — enough to swing the state in any direction. In Philadelphia, 396,000 did not vote and in Detroit, 466,000 ignored election day. The story is the same in other cities.

"Why not," asks Roy Reuther, "make it possible to register in every fire station, every city library, police station, high school and public building. Why not have public servants set up a continuing staff, which would go door to door registering on the spot if you can't get the people to some central registration office in their working neighborhoods?"

Uses Imagination

Roy Reuther, who is working with such nonpartisan groups as the American Heritage Foundation to create citizen registration committees, operates out of the headquarters of labor's Committee on Political Education (COPE). Through his unit there pulsates widespread imaginative political machinery. This ranges from Negro "House Captains" to specially produced films.

In Cleveland the other week, for example, the Negro American Labor Council dovetailed its activities with COPE. With labor's financial help the Negro organization will attempt to set up its House Captain network in 31 cities. Its technique will be the enrollment of superintendents or janitors in every apartment house in every Negro community from coast to coast. The "super" will be the House Captain — and it will be his task to get every family to register and vote.

This operation will attempt to reach into the homes of every urban Negro family in the land. It could be done for $325,000 according to Joe Overton, the Negro group's executive vice president.

As for the motion picture approach, there is the three-part film "People and Politics." Cost — $25,000. Technique — it can be split into three 10-minute parts for TV broadcasts. Or it can be used by lectures. Or it can be fitted together as a "full length" movie for showing at union meetings.

Why Politics?

Featuring George Meany, it states why labor is in politics. Why folks should register. And why they should get out the vote — an how.

There is no doubt that all this will bring new millions to the ballot booths. There is no doubt that these millions can make or break our biggest political names — and even the congressional strength of Mr. Kennedy himself.

That's why the strategists got started early over at labor's national headquarters.

Depend on Ads

Statistics supplied by members of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers indicate that gross sales of men's and boys' apparel in 1961 approximated $2.6 billion.

Men's apparel stores' faith in the selling ability of the daily newspaper is demonstrated by the fact that they traditionally invest 80-89 per cent of their ad budgets in their local papers.

Moss' Parents Want Him to Quit Racing

LONDON (AP)—The parents of badly injured racing driver Stirling Moss said that they want him to quit the sport that has made his name a legend.

"You can't go on seeing your son have accidents without wanting him to give up," said Alfred Moss, the driver's father, who has been with him constantly since Monday's crack-up at the Goodwood track.

"Stirling knows that I have felt like this for a long time." Mrs. Aileen Moss agreed after seeing her son lying unconscious in a South London hospital which specializes in brain surgery.

"I would like Stirling to stop racing after this," she said. His father added, however, that any decision on retirement would smash at an Easter Monday race be up to the driver. "You can't tell a son of 32 to give up his life's work just like that."

Thursday, April 26, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent C8

Moss suffered serious head injuries in a 100 miles per hour day throughout the night.

Coast Guard Says Harvey Killed Wife, Green Bay Family

Fortunate Circumstances Saved Life of Terry Jo Dupperault

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The U. S. Coast Guard ruled today that the ketch Bluebelle was intentionally sunk by Capt. Julian A. Harvey and that Harvey's wife, Mrs. Arthur Dupperault, Green Bay, and two of their children were slain by Harvey prior to the sinking.

A Coast Guard report on its investigation into the tragic sinking last Nov. 12 said Terry Jo Dupperault, 11, survived only through "five fortuitous circumstances."

The report said Harvey did not harm Terry Jo or her sister, Renee, "probably in the assumption that they would drown when the vessel sank."

The report said Renee drowned when the Bluebelle sank but that her body floated because of a life jacket she was wearing.

The report concluded that Harvey recovered Renee's body and kept it to lend credibility to the story he would later tell after being rescued.

List Reasons

These are the circumstances the Coast Guard listed as probably having saved Terry Jo's life:

1. Harvey was prevented from assuring that she did not survive because a dinghy had gone adrift and Harvey had to retrieve it.

2. Terry Jo knew of a small balsam life float, was able to free it from the sinking ketch and climb into it.

3. Harvey was unable to locate the girl after the vessel sank.

4. The weather was mild enough to permit the 11-year-old's survival with no food, water, shelter, and with scant clothing.

5. She was almost directly in the path of the rescue vessel, SS Captain Theo on the morning of Nov. 16 when the small life float was spotted.

The Coast Guard said circumstances would not permit determination of how the lives of the were taken or the order in which they died.

The Coast Guard said the probable cause of the casualty was "the state of mind of Julian A. Harvey at about 11:30 p.m. (EST) 12 Nov. 1961."

The report added, "The motives for the acts of Harvey cannot be ascertained. However, the fact that he was the sole beneficiary of his wife's insurance policy and that he was sorely in need of funds must be considered."

No criminal prosecution was indicated, due to Harvey's death, the report continued.

The Coast Guard recommended that the Bluebelle's owner, Harold S. Pegg, be cited by the 7th Coast Guard district commandant for alleged violation of regulations providing license requirements by the operator in charge.

No Operator

The report said the ketch did not have a licensed operator aboard during the ill-fated cruise.

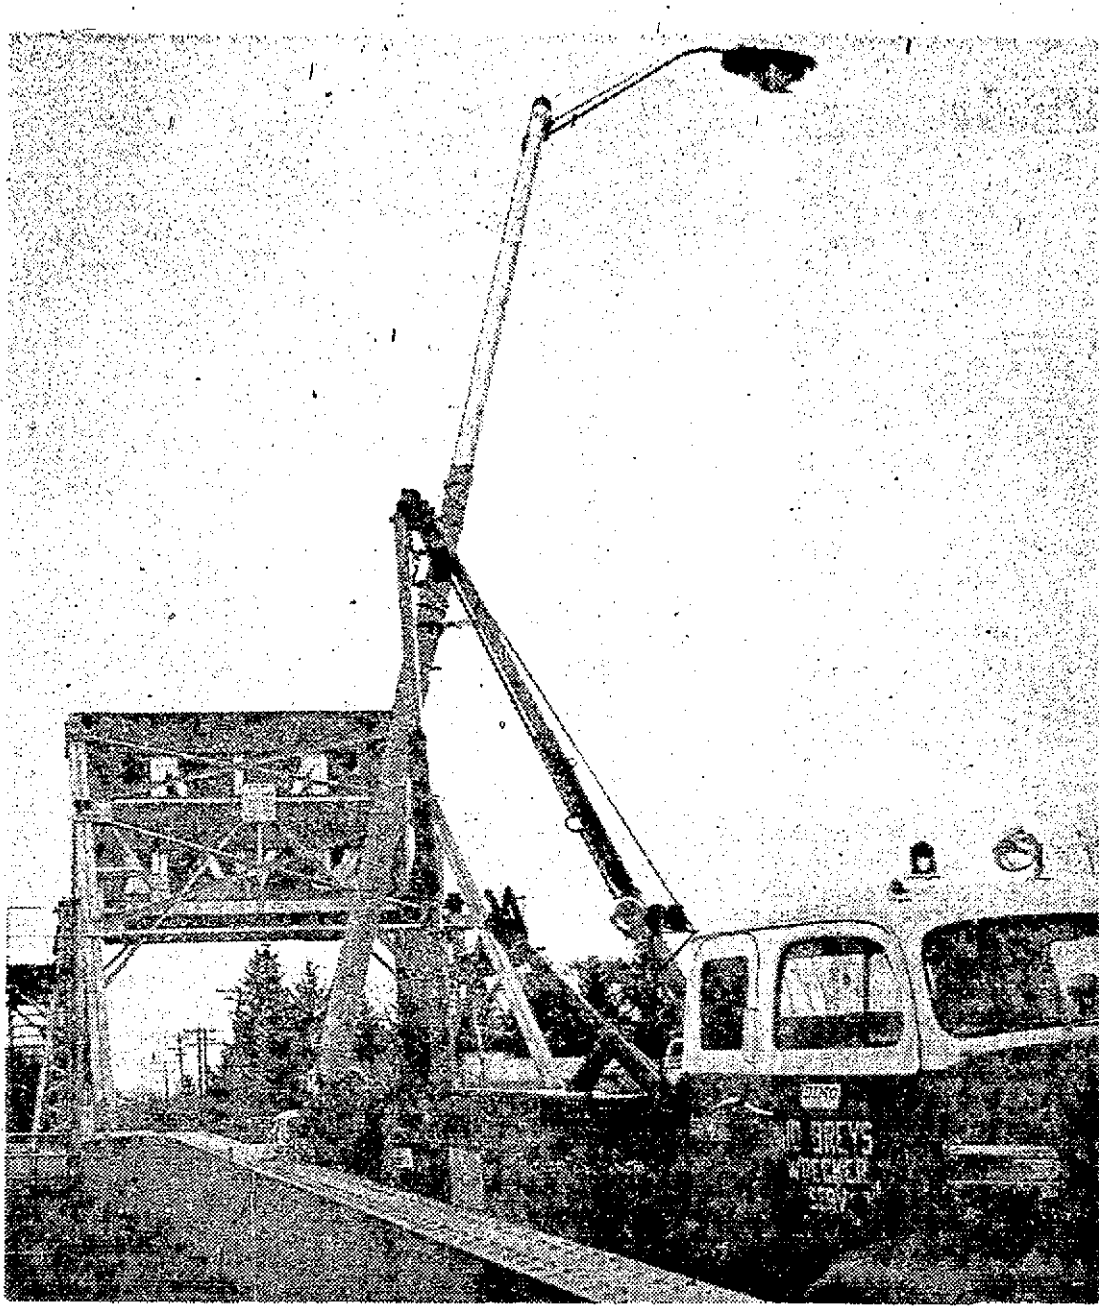

The announcement by Seventh District Coast Guard headquarters at Miami came a day after an insurance company asked a federal court to rule on the death of one passenger.

She was Mary Dene Harvey, 34, wife of Bluebelle skipper Julian A. Harvey. He killed himself a few hours after learning Terry Jo Dupperault, 11, was rescued semi-conscious from a life raft.

Told Tale

Harvey's tale of dismasting and fire last Nov. 12 in a Bahamas squall bore little resemblance to the account related by Terry Jo after she was nursed back to strength in a Miami hospital.

The pretty blonde Green Bay, Wis., girl, orphaned in the Bluebelle tragedy, told Coast Guard interrogators she saw no fire or broken masts on the 60-foot ketch. She said she did see her mother and brother lying on blood-spattered decks and was slapped by Harvey, who she said was carrying the ship's rifle and later abandoned her on the sinking craft.

Harvey, 44, a former Air Force officer with a history of involvement in auto, plane and boating accidents, skipped the yacht Bluebelle on a Dupperault family vacation charter cruise with his wife, Jean, 38, their son, Brian, 14, and daughters, Renee, 7, and Terry Jo had saved for a long time for the trip out of Fort Lauderdale.

Harvey was in a Coast Guard inquiry office when word came that Terry Jo was alive and was being brought to Miami after clinging more than three days to a five-foot life raft. He left the hearing room. Next morning, Harvey's body was found in his lodgings with razor slashes in throat and wrists. A note said he could not stand the strain any longer.

Terry Jo regained her strength quickly and went to live in De Pere with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Scheer.

The Travelers Insurance Co. asked U.S. District Court at Miami Tuesday to rule whether, how and when Mary Dene Harvey died.

Claimants representing both Harvey and his wife have filed suits to obtain payment of a $20,000 policy on Mrs. Harvey's life.

Memorial For Skid Test Engineer Made

Olen, FWD Museum
Manager, Honors
Nielsen's Memory

CLINTONVILLE — A memorial plaque to the late Erving Nielsen, 29, Dearborn, Mich., who drowned Jan. 18 at Pine Lake during the winter skid tests, has been completed by Walter A. Olen and is now on display at the FWD Historical Museum.

Olen, resident manager and lecturer of the museum, obtained the picture of the late Nielsen from his mother, Mrs. Letitia Nielsen, Dearborn, Mich.

Nielsen was a test engineer for the Ford Motor Co. and drowned when a Goodyear Rubber Co. truck crashed through the ice. The National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards was using the truck for skid tests at Pine Lake.

Several Inscriptions

A memorial resolution passed by the National Safety Council committee honoring Nielsen's contributions to traffic safety science was forwarded to Olen and is inscribed on the plaque. Also inscribed are a eulogy and meditation presented by the Rev. Kyle Bigham at the memorial service conducted at Christ Congregational Church, Clintonville.

Newspaper stories and pictures of the skid test work, the rescue operations and truck recovery complete the plaque.

Olen plans to display a sign with the plaque. It will read, "Millions are killed and injured on our highways. Erving Nielsen was one who lost his life trying to find a remedy and is the only fatality recorded in 23 years of testing by the National Safety Council."

Airline Opposes Taxi Services

Post-Crescent News Service

North Central Airlines Wednesday recorded opposition at a Public Service Commission hearing in city hall to the request of Conrad Limousine Service to link Austin Straubel Field and downtown Appleton.

North Central noted that it has two arrivals daily at the Outagamie County Airport. Conrad's firm, which operates between Straubel Field and downtown Green Bay, seeks permission to extend service from Straubel Field to the Outagamie County Airport and downtown Appleton.

Neenah Nurse New Appleton Appointee

Miss Mary Ann Werner, a native of Neenah, has been appointed Appleton's new public health nurse. She will assume her duties here May 14.

Miss Werner is a certified public health nurse, and received her bachelor of science degree in nursing in 1960 from the Marquette University College of Nursing.

At present she is the public health nurse for the City of Greenfield, near Milwaukee. Her duties at Greenfield include conducting immunization clinics, well-baby clinics and she serves as the school nurse for two grade schools with an enrollment of 1,300.

Miss Werner will replace Mrs. Mattie Lu Bollenbeck, who resigned because she is getting married. Mrs. Bollenbeck began work for the city Feb. 2, 1962.

Firemen Called To Three Blazes In Appleton

Firemen fought minor fires in a garbage truck, a dog house and at a telephone pole Wednesday. A city of Appleton rubbish truck caught fire about 9:05 a.m. in front of 1024 S. Lawe St. Smoldering ashes from a trash barrel were blamed for the fire. A telephone pole on Chicago and North Western Railroad property near Division Street caught fire about 2:32 p.m. Cork in a nearby railroad car was burning when firemen arrived on the scene.

A dog house caught fire from unknown causes next door to 72 Garden Court and was put out with a garden hose about 2:32 p.m. The house is owned by Robert Spooner.

Pan American Program Set by KHS Spanish Club

KAUKAUNA — The Spanish Club at Kaukauna High School will stage a "Pan American Day Program" at a general assembly at the school Thursday.

Youth Group Plans Meeting

Walthers Leaguers From 9 Churches Will Have Rally

Lutheran young people from nine Fox Cities area churches will attend a meeting of the Walthers League, International youth organization of the Lutheran Church in rural, Fremont. The meeting will be the annual spring rally of the Valley of Rivers Zone.

The Zion Church youth society will be host for the event. Other societies which are members of the zone are Faith Church, Appleton; Bethany, Kaukauna; St. Paul, Fremont; Trinity - Grace, Bear Creek; St. Paul, Manawa; St. Mark, Symco; Emmaus, Wau-paca, and St. Paul, Amherst.

Zone officers estimate that between 100 and 125 Leaguers will attend. Forty to 50 members of the Appleton Faith Walthers League plan to attend.

The rally will start with devotions at 2 p.m., followed by the business meeting at 2:45 p.m. Myron Cook of Ringle, Wis., a representative of the North Wisconsin - Upper Michigan District of the International Walthers League, of which the local zone is a member, will speak during the business meeting.

The Rev. H. P. Westmeyer of Fremont will lead a discussion of the topic "You and Your Temptations." Leaguers will separate into six discussion groups.

After the supper, to be served by the host society, Leaguers will have community singing, and then take part in a vesper service conducted by the Rev. R. W. Goetsch of Amherst at 7:00 p.m.

Zone president is Henry Simon of Appleton. Darlene Kline of Appleton is vice president and Christian growth chairman, while Barbara Mason, also of Appleton, is secretary-treasurer. The Rev. Walter Schedler of Bear Creek is zone spiritual advisor.

Special Tax Payment Hours Set in Appleton

City Treasurer Ray Feuerstein will have his office open until 8 p.m. Friday for the convenience of taxpayers who cannot get there during regular business hours.

Monday is the deadline to pay the second and final installment of real estate taxes.

Feuerstein said his office will not be open Saturday. City hall is closed on Saturday.

Lawrence Faculty Changes Approved

Board Okays 11 Appointments, 4 Resignations and 11 Leaves

The executive committee of the Lawrence College board of trustees has approved 11 faculty appointments, four resignations and 11 leaves of absence for 1962-63.

Resignations have been accepted from Dr. William H. Riker, professor of government, who will go to the University of Rochester; Dr. Norman W. Taylor, assistant professor of economics, who will go to Franklin and Marshall College; Dr. Paul Plass, instructor in classics currently on leave with the armed services, who will go to the University of Missouri; and Arthur Coxford, instructor in mathematics, who will return to graduate school at the University of Michigan.

Of the 11 faculty leaves, seven are for the full year; Minoo Adenwalla, government, to study in England; W. Paul Gilbert and Margaret Shea Gilbert, physics and biology respectively, to study at Stanford on a National Science Foundation fellowship; Robert Rosenberg, chemistry, to study at Oxford on an NSF grant; Merion M. Sealts Jr., English, for research at Harvard; Lawrence D. Steefel, Jr., art, to study in Paris on an American Council of Learned Societies grant; Leonard Weiss, geology, for graduate study, and Richard Winslow, Spanish, to study at the University of Madrid on a Fulbright award.

Three other faculty members will be gone for one or two terms of the new three-term year: Richard Stowe, French, for the first term; Anne Jones, French for the second and third, and Donald Lemke, education, for the third term.

Faculty Receives Grants

A variety of grants from foundations and from the college itself are enabling most of the faculty members to take their leaves of absence.

New appointments are A. Harvey Belitsky, assistant professor of economics; Lawrence alumna Dorothea Binhammer, '59, instructor in biology; Michael J. Brandt Jr., assistant professor of art; Mrs. Timothy K. Estes, part-time assistant in chemistry and mathematics; Fred Kaplan, instructor in English; Sara Prociou, instructor in modern languages; Paul J. Stewart Jr., instructor in history; T. John Metz, reference librarian, with rank of instructor; and Charles B. Maurer, instructor in modern languages.

In addition, Dr. Elisabeth Koffka, who came to Lawrence on a one-year appointment from the New York Foundation, is being retained in the history department, and Charles Fisher, a 1958 graduate of Lawrence, has been appointed assistant to the president and resident head at Plantz Hall.

Dr. Belitsky holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin, an M.A. from Syracuse and a Ph.D. from Harvard. He is now on the faculty of Rutgers University, and has been a consultant to the U.S. Department of Labor. His specialty is labor economics.

Miss Binhammer, a summa cum laude graduate of Lawrence, is now working for her Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin, under a National Science Foundation grant.

Michael Brandt, for five years head of the art department at Appleton High School, is now doing graduate work at the University of Wisconsin and acting as an instructor in the art department. He holds B.S. and M.E. degrees from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Mrs. Estes, whose husband will be a student at the Institute of Paper Chemistry next year, will receive her bachelor of science in June from Kalamazoo College.

Victorian Literature Specialist

Fred Kaplan is an alumnus of Brooklyn College, and holds an M.A. from Columbia University. His field of specialization is Victorian literature, particularly Charles Dickens.

Metz was trained at Heidelberg College, from which he holds a bachelor of music; Miami University, M.A., and the University of Michigan, master of arts in library science. He has been a circulation librarian at the University of Wisconsin for the past two years.

Sara Prociou, who is a candidate for a Ph.D. in French at the University of Wisconsin this June, spent a year with the Sweet Briar Junior Year Abroad group in Paris, graduated from Muskingum College, and holds an M.A. from Wisconsin. She has taught at Juniata College, Huntington, Pa.

Dr. Stewart holds A.B. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois, and an A.M. from Columbia. He has taught at Illinois and at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette, La. Maurer holds a B.A. from the University of Michigan, an M.A. from Northwestern, and spent a year at the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität, Munich, Germany on a Fulbright grant. At present he is an assistant at the University of Illinois, Navy Pier.

The Lawrence College Library addition has shed its winter-time plastic bag, and is revealing its new facade on E. Alton Street. The addition, which will double the existing facilities, is scheduled for completion by September. Book-moving will take place during the summer months. Cost of the addition, designed by Frank C. Shattuck and M. F. Siwert Associates, Inc., of Neenah, is $776,000.

For Vocational School

Kaukauna Finance Committee To Study $100,000 Addition

KAUKAUNA — The finance committee of the common council is studying financing for the $100,000 addition to the Kaukauna School of Vocational and Adult Education.

Several weeks ago the committee voted to finance the addition with money returned to the city by the school board after the bond issue is floated.

The school board owes the city money from loans granted to complete remodeling of Park and Nicolet schools, to revamp the high school heating and ventilating system and for money appropriated by the city with which to purchase property for the new high school addition.

Short Term Loan

Granting the $100,000 to the Vocational School is hinged on whether the school board has sufficient funds from a recently floated $2 million bond issue. The finance unit decided to study other financing methods because the vocational school board has granted contracts for the 6-room addition.

Discussion centers on floating an additional $100,000 bond issue or taking a short term loan from banks, to be repaid over a four or five-year period. The second alternative seems to be favored by the committee. Preliminary costs for setting up a $100,000 bond issue would be sufficient to cover much of the interest required on a short term loan.

Mosinee Mill Joins Service

Paper Information Group Made Up of 22 Manufacturers

Directors of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service announced that Mosinee Paper Mills Co., Mosinee, has been voted membership in the statewide organization.

Formal announcement was made at a meeting of the group's executive committee at the Wausau Club. The Information Service is an association of 22 major pulp and paper manufacturers, with headquarters in Neenah. Member firms cooperate in a program to disseminate information about the industry to schools, news media and other organizations throughout the state.

Mosinee's president, C. M. Green, will serve as a director of the association and will sit on its policy-shaping executive committee.

Behncke Exhibit To be Extended At Paine Center

The current exhibition of water colors by Nile Behncke at the Paine Art Center and Arboretum will be extended through Sunday, June 10. The decision was based upon the high degree of public interest shown by attendance at the show.

The display of Fox River Valley high school art, formerly announced to be shown during May, has been cancelled, according to Robert C. Paterson, director of art for the Oshkosh Public Schools. "Fox River Valley high schools were reluctant to send samples of their art," Paterson said, "and therefore the exhibition might not have been illustrative of the best work available."

All 28 public and private collectors who have lent their Behncke pictures to the art center have agreed to this extended display.

The paintings range greatly in subject and style over a 30-year span. Although the majority were painted in Wisconsin, a number were done in Honolulu, Washington, Maine and in the Rocky Mountains.

The Nile Behncke exhibition is open free to the public from 2 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. All over the age of 12 are welcome. The Art Center is located at 1410 Algoma Blvd., Oshkosh.

BOYS—HERE'S OPPORTUNITY ON WHEELS —THE SOAP BOX DERBY!

This is a special message to all boys 11 through 15 years of age. It's about the Soap Box Derby coming up this summer. Here's fun and excitement to remember a lifetime—and now's the time to get in on it. The Soap Box Derby is a special competition for boys who build and race gravity-propelled coasting cars. You'll have a ball building a Derby car and driving it in front of the hometown crowd in the local race. And, if you win, you're really in! Honors and prizes include a $500 savings bond from Chevrolet and, best of all, a free trip to Akron, Ohio, to race in the 25th All-American Soap Box Derby on August 4 at Derby Downs. And what a trip! Four fun-filled days of it. You get a champ's royal welcome. Stay at a special camp called Derbytown where you can swim, ride horseback, play ball and other sports. Rub shoulders with other champions from the United States and foreign countries. Meet famous movie and TV stars. All this topped off with the excitement of racing for a share of $30,000 in college scholarships. You're eligible if you will be at least 11 and not over 15 as of August 1, 1962. You couldn't put spare time to better use or have more fun matching your ideas and building and driving skill in competition with other boys. It's easy to enter. 2 to Celebrate 25 Years in Priesthood

Norbertines to Offer Solemn Masses in Appleton, Oshkosh

DE PERE — Two Norbertine priests will celebrate the 25th anniversary of their ordination to the priesthood at masses in St. Norbert Abbey and parish churches in Oshkosh and Appleton. They are the Rev. John J. Kohnke, O.Praem. and the Rev. Justin E. Diny, O.Praem. Both were ordained to the priesthood by the late Bishop Paul P. Rhode at St. Francis Xavier Cathedral, Green Bay, March 22, 1937.

Father Kohnke is pastor of St. William Church, Shelby, Mont. He has also served parishes in Hingham, Mont.; Sunburst, Mont.; and Chester, Mont., and is a former pastor of St. Joseph Church, Oneida.

During 1958-59, he served as assistant of St. Willebrord Church, Green Bay. He remodeled several of the churches he served and started construction of a new church in Hingham. Father Kohnke also taught on the faculties of Southeast Catholic High, Philadelphia and St. Norbert High, now Abbot Pennington, West De Pere.

Born in Oshkosh, Father Kohnke was born in Oshkosh Aug. 1, 1907. He joined the Norbertine Order Aug. 28.

5 School Districts, Parts of Others Added to Appleton

Five School Districts and parts of three others were attached to the Appleton District by the Outagamie-Calumet joint county school committee Wednesday, completing attachment of all areas of Outagamie County to a district operating a high school. The districts involved are Badger (1), Triangle (2), Twin Willow (3), Woodlawn (4), Elmdale (5), part of Speel (6), the Town of Grand Chute portion of Sunny View (7)—(a small area hidden by the number), and the Town of Grand Chute portion of Elm Tree (8). The Red Star District (9) was attached to Appleton in 1961, and a small area of the Harrison District (10) was attached in January.

Appleton Auditors Verify Paving Fund Had $42,000

Former Ald. Pointer Contended $4,000 in Tabulation Incorrect

A statement from the auditors for the City of Appleton has substantiated former Ald. Roy Pointer's contention that there was more than $4,000 left in the 1961 paving account, not the $4,147 reported in City Clerk-Comptroller Elden Broehm's routine tabulation of the account.

Pointer

The statement, from Becher Okada Co., was not read at the last council meeting. It was simply announced and received and filed.

Pointer raised the issue of how much was left in the 1961 paving account when it became apparent that this year's account was going to have to be reduced by an unnecessarily large amount to repay a short-term bank note.

Agreement Violated
Pointer said that a council agreement on how to repay the loan was not kept, and the money left in the account was put in the general fund at budget time to reduce the amount of the tax rate increase in an election year. The city borrowed $74,000 last year because there was not enough money in the paving account to do all the work scheduled.

It was agreed that the loan would be repaid from this year's paving appropriation. Further, it was agreed that any money left in the account at the end of the year would be used to help pay off the bank loan, thus reducing the amount that would be taken from the 1962 account to pay back the loan.

Aldermen Not Told
Pointer said the balance in the 1961 account was transferred to the general account in November without informing the aldermen of what was being done.

Ald. Alvin E. Tews, finance committee chairman, asked City Clerk-Comptroller Elden Broehm for a tabulation of the 1961 paving account.

Broehm's tabulation showed there was only $4,147 left in the account.

Pointer's tabulation showed a balance of $41,359, and the Becher Okada statement shows $42,787.

When Pointer presented his figures to the council on March 21, Tews requested that the city have its auditors go over the 1961 account to see how much was left. The statement from Becher Okada says the city had $224,000 available in the 1961 account as the city share of costs. Actual amount spent was $181,213, leaving a balance of $42,787.

The firm says that the balance "did not reduce the 1962 tax rate per se."

However, Pointer claimed that in effect it did reduce the tax rate hike because the unexpended balance was transferred to the general fund as a surplus. Surplus in the general fund is carried forward to the next year as revenue and thereby lowers the amount of money that must be levied and is raised by property taxes.

'62 Work Curtailed
Pointer said that because the portion of the bank loan not spent (the balance in the account) was not used to help pay back the loan the 1962 paving work is going to have to be curtailed because there will be less money available.

"I'm fully in favor of putting unexpended balances in the general fund to be transferred as surpluses to the next year's budget," Pointer said, "so that the tax rate can be kept down."

"But I am against breaking a council agreement in a special case like this, and not telling anyone about it."

"I certainly don't approve of this manner of handling public funds," Pointer concluded.

Works Board Picks Chairman

Kaukauna Engineer Authorized to Seek Bids on Sewer Jobs

KAUKAUNA — A reorganizational meeting of the board of public works was held Tuesday night with Arnold Vander Loop, First Ward alderman and six-year veteran on the council, named chairman.

Serving as vice chairman will be Fred Reichel, Fifth Ward alderman, who was elected to a sixth two-year term.

The board authorized the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications and advertise for bids on storm and sanitary sewer projects as set up in the 1962 budget. The budget has $33,800 appropriated for sewer outlays.

The board will recommend removal of 23 tree stumps from various parts of the city and clearing dirt from Konkapot Creek to provide better drainage and use the dirt to help build up the swimming pool road which was partially washed out by heavy rains last year.

After rebuilding the road, an effort will be made to provide a retaining wall to prevent further washing out.

All Areas of County Have Complied With State Law On July 1 Attachments

BY JACQUELINE FIX
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Appleton school district grew by five districts and parts of three others Wednesday.

The attachments, proposed by resolution of the joint Outagamie-Calumet county school committee, were approved unanimously by the committee. The districts involved are Badger, Triangle, Twin Willow, Woodlawn, Elmdale, the parts of the Elm Tree and Sunny View districts that are in the Town of Grand Chute, and the western portion of the Speel District.

Driver Dies; Five Cars Damaged

Gordon F. Schroeder, 1907 N. Mason St., Appleton, died about 11:45 a.m. today. He was involved in an auto accident when his car was going west on W. Wisconsin Avenue.

The car smashed into two parked cars, which in turn struck two other cars. Witnesses said Schroeder was slumped over the wheel as he went through the intersection in the 1100 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue.

A car belonging to Mrs. L. J. Schink, 903 N. Owassa St., was damaged. Her car, parked on Wisconsin Avenue, hit a car owned by Richard Reetz, 1901 N. Racine St.

Reetz's car jumped the curb and smashed into Herb and Carl's wrecker and then proceeded into a used car lot and struck a car owned by Koloso Auto Sales.

There were no injuries. Coroner Bernard J. Kemps is investigating cause of death.

Keller Commends Don Jury as City Attorney Retires

County Judge Gustave J. Keller paid tribute today to outgoing City Atty. Don Jury as Jury won his last court case while representing the City of Appleton.

Jury successfully prosecuted a drunken driving case.

A delegation of city officials was on hand in the jury box as Judge Keller cited Jury for the way he has represented Appleton in the court and the method in which he has performed his duties.

Keller noted there were about 70 cases pending when the judge took over his duties in August. Only three remain to be disposed of.

AAA Counselors Plan Meeting in Appleton

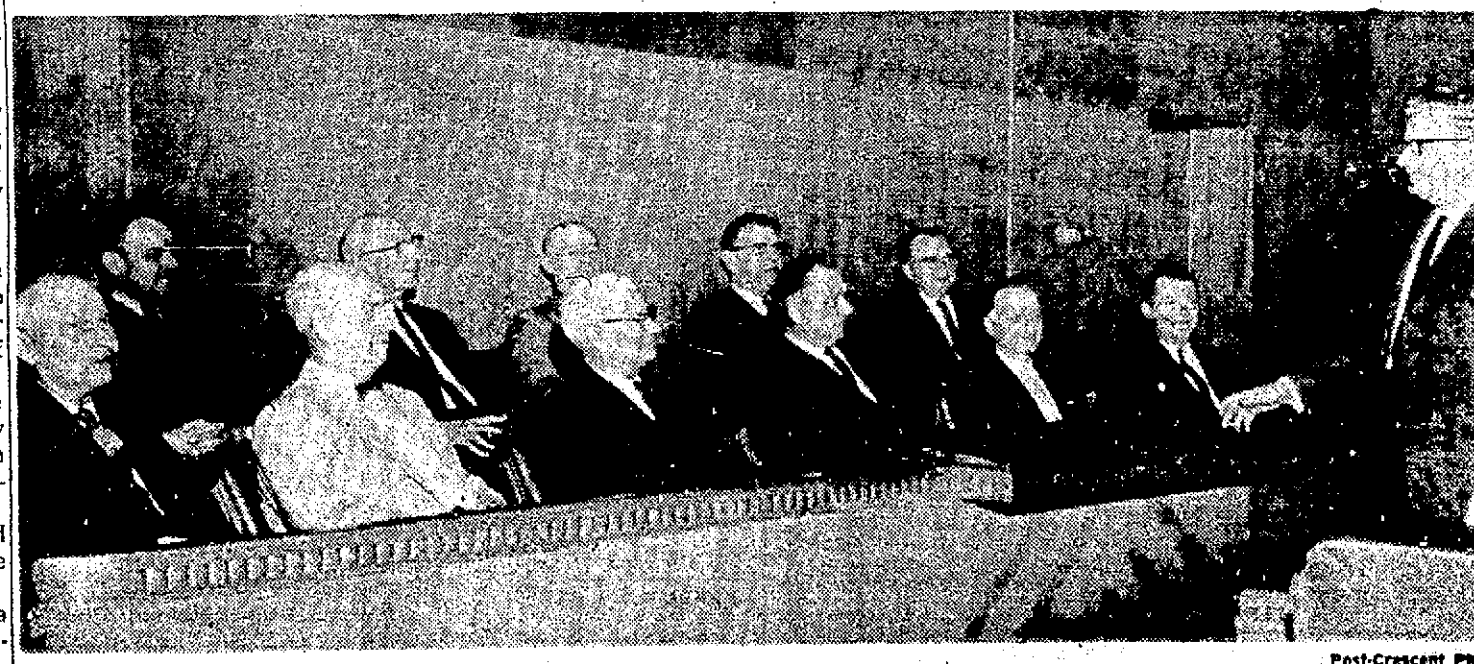

Travel counselors of the American Automobile Association Wisconsin Division will convene in Appleton this weekend to "bone up" for the summer travel season ahead.

The two-day meeting Friday and Saturday at the Holiday Inn, will highlight travel trends both in Wisconsin and the continental U.S., according to A. G. Hundt, assistant general manager and travel director for the Wisconsin AAA.

Attending the meeting from the Appleton AAA office will be Leeland Raab, Oliver Smith, Althea Dellgen and Hazel Dewey.

The travel counselors will be briefed on latest highway information, including new Interstate routes, major construction areas, as well as special travel events such as the Seattle World's Fair, Hundt said.

Lake Water's Assets Told

Rotarians Hear Drinking, Electric Power Advantages

FOND DU LAC — Advantages of Lake Michigan water for drinking and hydro electric power were outlined for the members of the Rotary Club this week.

A plan, based on pump storage, two artificial lakes and an aqueduct, as proposed by Herbert Moore, and Ernest F. Vitler, consulting engineers from Milwaukee, would provide power and drinking water for Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and all the Fox Cities, the engineers say.

Moore's plan was described in detail in a Post-Crescent story in February when Moore unveiled his project at a Corps of Engineers hearing at Roosevelt Junior High School.

Water would be pumped from Lake Michigan at Port Washington, carried to an artificial lake and then piped to a second artificial lake near Fond du Lac. During the day water could be drawn off the first lake for hydro-electric power and at night water re-pumped into the lake, to furnish more water, Moore said.

He supplemented his talk with pictures, maps and a topographical map showing the proposed installations. He also showed slides of similar systems in operation in Niagara Falls, western Massachusetts, the Appalachians, and Michigan's lower peninsula.

New Residences to Get Natural Gas

Wisconsin Michigan Will Extend Lines to Subdivisions This Year

Natural gas service will be available to all the new subdivisions in Appleton and surrounding areas by the end of the year.

M. L. Lewis, gas division manager of Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., said this extension of service would represent the most ambitious expansion program in the company's history.

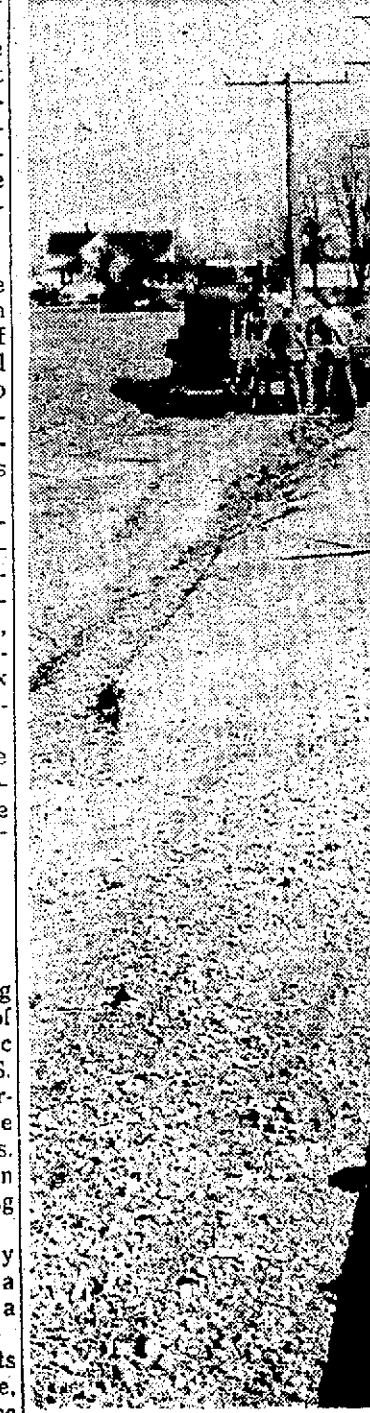

Projects for the year include the extension of service on East John Street to the Town of Buchanan. The new main will be available to serve the new Saint Bernadette Catholic Church, future school sites and expanding residential areas.

New Mains in South
Gas transmission mains are now being extended along South Oneida Street into the Town of Menasha. The new main will branch off on Midway Road to reinforce service to the University of Wisconsin Extension Center and serve the new Homeacres Subdivision in the area.

North of Appleton a major construction project will extend service to the Oneida Park Subdivision. Service is also being extended to Butte des Morts Heights, west of Appleton. East of Appleton service on State 96 to Fox Point Subdivision is being completed.

In addition to new mains, the construction program includes replacing of existing mains in some areas. The major replacement project will take place on State 47 between Appleton and Menasha. Lewis said the principal reason for the accelerated construction activity is to meet demands for natural gas heating service in the affected areas.

Extension of Natural Gas service by Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. will set new records during 1962. This view shows a transmission main now being installed on S. Oneida St. in Appleton and extending into the town of Menasha.

Congressman Says Tests to be Staged Every 2 or 3 Days

HONOLULU (AP)—Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, indicated U.S. nuclear weapons tests in the current Pacific series would be staged every two or three days.

He talked with a reporter in Honolulu Wednesday before going to Christmas Island.

Hosmer said it was quite likely the Soviet Union would stage a nuclear test series of its own as a result of the U.S. testing.

"However, I doubt if their tests will have any significant value, having just run one series," he said.

"Probably the only thing they have untested is low-priority stuff, what they didn't test last fall. They aren't ready for another testing program."

Mayor to Name Study Group For Calder Field Project

MENASHA — Before further planning is done on the Nathan Calder Athletic Field project, Mayor John Klein will name a Town of Menasha Board and Board of Education members as well as citizens to study the matter.

He promised to name the committee at the request of Ald. Richard Hansen and School Board Member Thomas Woodrow.

Hansen said, "All want to see it not all want to pay for it."

Referendum

The groups Wednesday night were told by City Atty. Richard Steffens that a referendum must be held to determine public sentiment toward the stadium. Chapman & Cutler, Chicago bonding attorneys, advised the city that the vote must be held because the project is not strictly for school purposes nor for parks and playgrounds.

Council thinking is to put the vote on the September party primary election schedule.

Costs now are estimated at between $170,000 and $300,000, said the mayor. The town board has been asked to contribute its usual 25 per cent toward school costs to the stadium. Town Chairman Amos Page promised to get the city an answer soon. The school board is involved because the stadium would be put under its jurisdiction.

Donation

Ten acres of land were given and $25,000 offered by Banta project.

At 7 p.m. today, Judge-Elect James Sitter will speak to the council finance committee on the question of continuing or abolishing the 4-month-old municipal justice court now operated by Arthur J. Ales.

A Wednesday Evening Memorial Service was one of the opening events at the 2-day state conference of Gold Star Mothers, at the Raulf Hotel, Oshkosh. Officers will be installed at a 6:30 p.m. banquet today. From left are the Rev. David Bunkleman, pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church; Mrs. Camilla Stokes, Manitowoc, department president; the Rev. B. H. Romanowski, pastor of St. Paul United Church of Christ, and Mrs. William Butzlaff, Oshkosh.

30,000 May be Watching Rally By Holy Name

Green Bay Diocese Holds Huge Affair May 20 in Manitowoc

MANITOWOC — A colorful and inspiring spectacle will be unfolded here Sunday, May 20, when the Green Bay Diocesan Holy Name Society stages a parade and rally expected to draw 30,000 to 35,000 persons.

Officials of the Manitowoc Deanery are busy making arrangements for the huge rally, which was last held at Oshkosh in 1958. Manitowoc previously was host to a diocesan rally in 1938.

Preceding the rally will be a mammoth parade in which Holy Name men and their sons will participate along with an estimated 20 bands from various diocesan cities. Frank W. Tomcheck, Manitowoc police chief, has been named parade marshal.

Scene of Rally

The parade will start at 2 p.m. from Eighth and State streets and proceed to the Manitowoc County Fairgrounds, scene of the rally. The entire program is expected to be concluded at about 4:30 p.m.

A special stand is being constructed in front of the grand-

FAA Gives 'Check List' Signs To Airports as Safety Step

OSHKOSH — Pilots preparing for take-off will soon be reminded to "Use Your Check List" by bright reflective type signs to be placed next to the take off point.

stand to house an altar and accommodate visiting dignitaries and a choir from Holy Innocents Church of Manitowoc. Highlight of the rally will be a sermon by the Most Rev. Stanislaus V. Bona, bishop of the Green Bay Diocese.

Deaneries to be represented at the rally include Oshkosh, Marinette, Outagamie, Kewaunee, De Pere, Northern, Door, Green Bay, Oconto, New London, Calumet, Shawano, Langlade and Manitowoc.

Suggest Picnic

Holy Name members are being encouraged to make a day of it with their families. A picnic lunch on the way to Manitowoc along the shoreline of scenic Lake Michigan is suggested. This plan will reduce traffic congestion and provide an outing for the family, officials said. Space for family members and elderly persons will be available in the grandstand at the Fairgrounds.

Information and reception centers will be set up at five points in and around Manitowoc to aid Holy Name rally participants. Upwards of 20 Manitowoc Civil Defense auxiliary policemen under the direction of County Traffic Police Lt. William E. Falvey will assist with parking.

According to the FAA, more than 4,000 of these signs are to be distributed to the more than 838 public use airports throughout the 11 states of the FAA Central Region.

FAA statistics show that between 65 and 75 per cent of the total number of accidents occur either in the takeoff or landing phase of operation. Use of check lists is accepted by professional pilots as the best way to safe and normal, as well as emergency, aircraft operating procedures.

Strict adherence to use of the check list will increase the safety record and this "Project Check List" sponsored by the Federal Aviation Agency is another effort on the part of the Agency to increase the safety factor in flying.

Boys Admit Flying Flag

Youth Had Raised Homemade Banner At Police Station

NEENAH — "The Spider" has been caught in a web of his own making, police said today.

A 17-year-old boy, under questioning, admitted Wednesday that he and a 16-year-old companion were responsible for flying the "spider" flag over the police station last Friday night.

The lads also admitted putting a similar banner on the flagpole of the city water tower, March 27, and attaching a paper flag to the drive-in window of the National Manufacturers Bank March 24.

The "spider" flag was fashioned by the boy with a four-pointed blue star in the center of a white field. It had orange and red trim.

The boy said he got the idea for the stunt while on a western vacation.

The 17-year-old was turned over to the custody of his mother, while the younger lad was placed in custody of his father.

Police said arrest of the two boys was the result of intensive investigation.

Bowen Street Dock to be Fixed, Oshkosh Decides

OSHKOSH — Oshkosh council opposed spending any money on the dock and wanted a curfew Wednesday night to agree to ask for specifications and bids to rebuild the Bowen Street fishing dock and to spend $1,700 to remove a portion of the dock now considered unsafe.

The council also will consider, at its formal session next Wednesday prohibiting fishing from the dock between 10 p.m. and sunrise.

Councilman William Manske took issue with Stauffer and said if anything created a nuisance it was local fishermen who climb over the fence that blocks off the condemned portion of the dock.

Most of the council agreed that the Bowen Street dock was a special problem because of the surrounding residential area and did not feel a curfew was warranted on any of the other docks.

Await Report From Crime Lab On Gokey Death

OSHKOSH — A report from the state crime laboratory on its investigation of the mysterious death of Mrs. May Gokey, 61, who lived just outside the city of Oshkosh, is being awaited, Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhaber said today.

There are no new developments and the investigation is continuing with the questioning of various persons, he said.

Physical evidence, such as her clothing and a light bulb taken from the bathroom fixture and found lying on a living room shelf, are being checked by the state crime laboratory.

Mrs. Gokey was found at 11:30 a.m. Saturday on a hallway floor at her home. She had been dead from 30 to 40 hours of a heart attack brought on by a beating. There also was strong suggestive evidence of a sexual assault, according to the autopsy pathologist, Dr. H. M. Hillenbrand.

Oshkosh Council Debates Milk Law

OSHKOSH — The relative health merits of pasteurized milk versus certified raw milk were debated before the common council Wednesday night with the council deciding to take two more weeks to digest the facts before coming up with a decision.

The council is being asked to amend its Grade A milk ordinance to permit the sale of certified raw milk in the city. City health officials oppose the proposal, contending certified raw milk does not meet the safety standards required.

A request for city aid to build a rifle and pistol range in the basement of the former Recreational gym also was put off by the council until more information is obtained.

All-College Vote

OSC Students Elected To Government Posts

OSHKOSH — Officers to head the Oshkosh State College student government and the various classes during the next school year were named recently in all-college elections.

The new junior class officers are James Berger, Oshkosh, president; Mary Schryver, Lake Geneva, vice president; Olav Neuwejaer, Oshkosh, secretary; and Michael Popelka, Elkhart Lake, treasurer.

Jessie Salas of Wautoma was elected president of the sophomore class. Also named were Mary Kennedy, Oshkosh, vice president; Karl Krueger, Manitowoc, secretary; and Jerry Pierce, Oshkosh, treasurer.

The incoming freshman class will have its election in the fall.

Menasha Firemen Answer Two Calls

MENASHA — Two fire runs were made Wednesday evening and this morning with no damage being reported in each case.

Firemen were called at 6:55 p.m. to extinguish a grass fire along the Milwaukee Road tracks between Seventh and Eighth Streets.

Moss peat in a planter at the Falcons Club, 544 Fourth St., caught fire at 2:44 a.m. today and brought out the firemen who used a hand fire extinguisher to put out the blaze.

Straw Afire in Soo Freight Car

NEENAH — The Fire Department was called to the tracks next to the Soo Line freight depot, Henry Street, at 12:29 a.m. after straw caught fire in a freight car containing bricks.

Appleton District Grows as School Areas are Attached

year," B. J. Mares, chairman of the joint county school committee said. "On no occasion have they presented any problems, although in this reorganization program we have created problems for them."

Kurtz said that he will present recommendations to handle problems created by the attachments at the next meeting of the Appleton school board May 14. All of the school buildings in the attached areas will have to be used, he said, and probably seventh and eighth graders will continue to attend these schools next year since there is not room for them at present in the junior high schools.

The chief concern of the people in the attached areas seems to be whether kindergarten will be provided, he said. This will have to be decided by the school board.

Appleton school administrators will visit the schools and meet with the boards, teachers and PTAs in making plans for the attachments, he said.

Equalized Valuation

The eight attached areas have an equalized valuation of $22,437,740, according to 1960 figures. The Appleton equalized valuation is about $230,000,000.

The equalized valuation by districts is Badger, $6,989,000; Triangle, $2,484,000; Twin Willow, $2,435,000; Woodlawn, $6,952,500;

Elmdale, $2,029,500; the Town of Grand Chute portion of Elm Tree, $566,300; the Town of Grand Chute portion of Sunny View, $67,700; and the attached portion of the Speel District, $862,840.

No provision was made in the 1962 Appleton school budget for the attached areas, which will be operated by Appleton from July to January. If operating costs exceed assets in the attached districts, the school board will have to request a special appropriation from the city council. A special levy would then be made against the attached district in 1963 and the money returned to Appleton. After 1962 the attached districts will pay the regular Appleton school tax.

U. S. Will Not Fight Du Pont Case Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy announced today the government will not appeal from the final judgment entered in the Du Pont General Motors case by Judge Walter J. LaBuy of Chicago.

The decision brings to an end 13 years of litigation to compel Du Pont to dispose of its 63 million shares of stock in General Motors.

Kennedy said that, while the court did not accept all of the government's proposed terms, Judge LaBuy's judgment achieves the basic ends of this important litigation.

Must Dispose of Stock

The judgment requires the Du Pont firm and the Du Pont family-controlled holding company, Christian A. Securities Co., to divest themselves completely of their General Motors stock holdings.

The judgment further provides that a number of the Du Pont family members must sell GM stock they receive in the divestitures. A total of 8,566,646 GM shares would be sold in this manner.

In a stipulation filed today, stockholders affiliated with the Du Pont management agreed to sell an additional 3,079,261 shares of GM stock they now hold or would receive.

Henry Simon Elected Head of Walther League

Henry Simon has been elected president of the Faith Church Walther League. Other new officers are James Bertschy, vice president; Joyce Maas, secretary; Elizabeth Hensel, treasurer; Nancy Greenwalt, Christian growth chairman, and Kay Schulz, social chairman.

Leaguers packed clothes for the Lutheran World Relief clothing drive at the meeting Tuesday. Sally Casper presented a discussion on the topic "A Look at Liberal Protestantism." John Breitman and Peter Ankerson served refreshments.

2 to Celebrate 25 Years in Priesthood

1929 and was professed two years later.

A solemn high mass of thanksgiving will be celebrated by Father Kohnke at St. Mary Church, Oshkosh, at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, May 6. He will be assisted by the Rev. George Wiex, presbyter assistant, the Rev. Eugene Schmidt, deacon; the Rev. Roland De Peaux, O.Praem., subdeacon, and the Rev. Dennis Worzalla, master of ceremonies. The Rev. Eric J. Butikis, O.Praem., will preach the sermon.

Father Kohnke will be honored at a dinner in St. Mary hall at 1 p.m. Father Butikis will serve as toastmaster. A reception will be held in the parish hall from 2 until 4:30 p.m.

Mother in Appleton

Father Diny is the son of Mrs. Anna Diny and the late Peter N. Diny, 419 S. State St., Appleton. He has two sisters, Mrs. Robert Peerenboom, Appleton, and Mrs. Lawrence Van Zummeren, Kaukauna.

Father Diny was born at Hilbert June 17, 1912. He joined the Norbertine Order Aug. 28, 1929 and was professed in 1931. He has been headmaster of Archmere Academy, Claymont, Del., since 1946. Under his guidance, the school has become known as one of the best prep schools in the East.

He directed the construction of a large classroom building at Archmere, which was completed in 1959. Father Diny has previously served on the faculty of Archmere from 1937 to 1944. During this time he was also athletic director. In 1944, he joined the faculty of Central Catholic High, now Premontre, Green Bay, where he taught mathematics for two years.

Receives National Posts

Recently Father Diny was elected to the executive committee of the Middle States Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges. He is also vice-chairman of the advisory committee on mathematics for the secondary school department of the National Catholic Educational Association.

Father Diny will be the celebrant of a solemn high mass of thanksgiving at St. Mary Church, Appleton at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. He will be assisted by the Very Rev. N. J. McLaughlin, O.Praem., deacon, the Rev. Joseph N. Diny, an uncle, subdeacon, and the Rev. Gerald Faulk, master of ceremonies. The Rev. G. J. Feldman, O.Praem., will preach.

A dinner in honor of Father Diny will be held for the family and clergy in St. Mary hall following the mass. A reception will be held in the hall from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Father Kohnke and Father Diny will also celebrate masses of thanksgiving at St. Norbert Abbey at 11 a.m. Thursday, May 3. Father Kohnke will offer the Norbertine community high mass at the St. Norbert altar in the abbey church while Father Diny will celebrate mass at the Blessed Sacrament altar. The masses are open to the public. The priests will be honored at a Norbertine community dinner at 6 p.m.

Work Is Nearing Completion on the $59,000 clubhouse being erected by the Kaukauna Knights of Columbus. Plans call for open house an dedication of the new structure early in June.

Mead Corp. Has Rise in Sales, Net

H. E. Whitaker, chairman of the board of the Mead Corp., said today that earnings for the first quarter of 1962 came to $3,629,330 on sales of $109,404,266.

The earnings of 65 cents per share compare with earnings of 55 cents per share for the corresponding period in 1961. This is an improvement of 18 per cent. Sales increased to $400 million for the first time, due primarily to the acquisition of several companies. The rate of earnings, however, failed to follow the increase, and actually declined from the previous year, due to lower market prices. Whitaker said, "These have now improved, in part."

The Mead Corp., which manufactures white papers, paper board and converted products, owns Gilbert Paper Co., Menasha.

With respect to the question of earnings for the full year of 1962, Mr. Whitaker said, "You might well ask whether it will continue at this same level, and whether we can multiply the first quarter's results by four, to get an idea of the prospect for the year. You can, if you want to. I, myself, refuse to make a commitment."

Whitaker said present higher price levels would act in the company's favor in 1962, but that increased labor costs and their eventual reflection in the cost of raw materials would hurt earnings. "Our only recourse is to continue to drive for greater efficiency in our operations," he said.

Chiropractors To Have Seminar In Madison

"Relating Chiropractic to the Public" is the central theme of a public relations seminar to be conducted for chiropractors by the Wisconsin Chiropractic Association at Madison Saturday and Sunday.

J. W. Barnstable, Appleton, is program chairman for the seminar and will preside at some of the sessions. R. E. Breitbach of Kaukauna is one of four Wisconsin chiropractors who will demonstrate the use of the Speakers' Bureau.

The Saturday evening session will be devoted to demonstrations of "good posture" education by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Witte, Platteville. Lyman C. Johnston, research director of the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College, Toronto, Ontario, will report the results of a five year postural research program.

Robert Barrock, radio marketing consultant, Eastern Wisconsin Broadcasting Corp., Manitowoc, and H. M. Himes, executive vice president of the National Health Education Society, Atlanta, Ga., will discuss public relations methods.

Original Compositions to Be Featured at Recital

Seven Lawrence Conservatory student composers will put their original works on display at 3:30 p.m. Friday, in a public Harper Hall recital. There is no admission charge.

Their compositions represent this year's labors. Their work was done privately and under the direction of James Ming, Lawrence professor of music.

Only one of the seven is a composition major. He is Ronald Pelligrino, a conservatory senior from Kenosha. One of the students, Jean Lewis, is from this area. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Lewis, 1927 Montana St., Oshkosh. Miss Lewis is an organ and music education major.

Others Listed

Kimberly Students to Plan Program for Year

KIMBERLY — Home room periods at Kimberly High School next week will have students meeting with advisors to set up program schedules for the 1962-63 school year.

Incoming freshmen will report to the school May 12 for assistance in setting up a course of study for the coming year.

Five of the students will perform their own works. The remaining two have written music for instrumental ensembles, and will conduct fellow students in the performances.

Knowles Group Organizes in Fox Cities Area

An Outagamie County Knowles for Governor committee was formed Wednesday evening at the Conway Hotel, Appleton. Officers elected were: chairman, Urban P. Van Susteren; vice chairman, Mrs. John L. Spurr of New London; treasurer, Lyman Clark of Appleton; and secretary, Harold V. Froehlich.

About 25 delegates attended. They made plans to put Outagamie County into the Knowles convention endorsement campaign. Van Susteren stated that based on his findings as to delegate opinion Knowles has now approximately 90 per cent support of this delegation.

Fred Kaftan, Green Bay, a former Brown County state senator spoke to the group on organizational activities and reported that Brown County now appears to be over 50 per cent for Knowles. Fred Goff of Madison indicated to the group that Warren Knowles' delegate strength throughout the state is growing.

Another open meeting of delegates has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 16, at the Conway Hotel.

A Reminder From Your Police Department: To All Dog Owners:

Section 15.01 of the City Ordinances is quoted herewith: Dogs Not to Run at Large: It shall be unlawful for any person to permit his dog to run at large within the city limits of the City of Appleton at any time. A dog shall not be considered running at large when it is accompanied by its owner, a member of the owner's family, or an employee of the owner and is under its immediate control, except that dogs, when taken to public parks, shall be on a leash. This ordinance is quoted for the information of all persons. It is requested that all dog owners comply with this regulation.

Union Official's Trial Begins

James Brockhaus Arrested During Coated Paper Strike

Two paper drinking cups and two oily handkerchiefs were introduced as evidence Wednesday in the disorderly conduct trial of James W. Brockhaus, 30, a union official at the Appleton Coated Paper Co.

According to testimony from Sherman Frinak and John Reeve, executives of the company which was being struck Aug. 14, 1961, the date of the alleged disorderly conduct, the drinking cups were found near the spot where an oily substance may have been spilled on the railroad tracks.

Used Handkerchief

The two men testified they used their handkerchiefs and rubbed the oily tracks to preserve some of the oily substance. A picture, taken Aug. 14, showing the substance on the tracks was introduced.

Tom Busch, a chemist at the plant, testified he looked out the window of the Appleton Coated Paper Co., about 9:30 a.m. Aug. 14, and saw a person he described as Brockhaus pouring something on the tracks from a drinking cup.

Gave Testimony

According to Reeve and Frinak, the oily substance stretched 40 feet along two rails to the Meade Street sidewalk where pickets had been demonstrating.

Brockhaus has been charged with creating a disturbance by violent and boisterous action. He pleaded innocent in Municipal Court last year. He is being tried in County Court Branch 3 under Judge Raymond P. Dohr.

delegate strength throughout the state is growing. Another open meeting of delegates has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 16, at the Conway Hotel.

Merit Scholarship

1,050 Receive Awards on National Basis,
Representing Largest Number in History

Several Fox Cities area students are among the 1,050 winners of four-year Merit Scholarships announced today. This is the largest number of recipients in the seven-year history of the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Area recipients include Thomas L. Hanson, 777 Maple St., Neenah, a Kimberly-Clark merit scholar. A student at Neenah High School, he will study electrical engineering at Case Institute of Technology.

David A. Burress, Stevens Point, Glenn A. Snyder, Stevens Point, and Donald C. Hill, Wisconsin Rapids, were named Consolidated Papers, Inc., merit scholars. Burress, a Jacobs High School student, will study physics at the California Institute of Technology, and Snyder, also a Jacobs student, will take physics at Case Institute of Technology. Hill, a Lincoln High School student, will study mathematics at Ripon College.

About 625 students received Merit Scholarships sponsored by more than 150 business corporations, foundations, unions, professional associations and individuals. Another 425 received their scholarships from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. NMSC conducts the annual year-long competition in cooperation with high schools throughout the country.

Based on Need
Winners choose their colleges, and the amount of each award is based on individual financial need. Stipends range from $400 to $6,000 for the four years of college. Most of the scholarships are accompanied by a supplementary grant to the scholar's college. Total value of the awards for 1962 is estimated at $4.5 million.

NMSC's scholarship funds come from a $20 million Ford Foundation grant made in 1955. An additional grant of $14.5 million was announced on April 2. The winners of Merit Scholarships were chosen from a group of about 10,000 finalists, made up of students who attained high scores on the qualifying test and a second examination, and who had a record of other significant achievements.

Institute Graduate, George Sheets, Named Mead Vice President

George H. Sheets was elected vice president of The Mead Corp. by the board of directors, it was announced today by D. F. Morris, Mead president.

Dr. Sheets has worked for Mead since 1941. In January, 1962, he was appointed assistant to George H. Pringle, executive vice president.

Sheets holds a degree in Chemical Engineering from Ohio State University and a Ph.D. from the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton.

Steels Record Slight Gains

Selected Issues Make Recoveries In Mixed Session

NEW YORK (AP)—A slight recovery by steels and gains by selected issues featured a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .20 at 251.80 with industrials up .10, rails down .40 and utilities down .30.

Gains and losses of most key stocks went from fractions to a point or so.

DuPont Recovers

Du Pont recovered more than 2 points, adding some beef to the averages.

Studebaker - Packard reported its quarterly loss was only $2.6 million compared with $6.5 million in the year ago quarter and the stock was firm, as was American Motors. Chrysler dipped a fraction and Ford was off nearly a point.

Burroughs and Litton Industries lost more than 2 each and IBM was off about 4. Down a point or so were Liggett & Myers and Goodyear. North American Aviation was off about 2.

Other Gainers

Up about a point each were Caterpillar, United Aircraft and Inland Steel. Jones & Laughlin was ahead nearly a point. U.S. Steel and Republic Steel were fractional gainers. Bethlehem erased an early gain and eased. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .41 at 684.10. Prices were irregularly lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds showed slight change.

Bright Future For Rambler Is Predicted

KENOSHA (AP)—American Motors Corp. celebrated the 60th anniversary of the building of the first Rambler automobile Wednesday, with company officials anticipating a bright future based on steady and solid growth.

The grand finale of the anniversary was a dinner here attended by officials of the company and 850 persons. Attending the dinner were AMC's president, Roy Abernethy, and Richard E. Cross, chairman of the board. They had attended a luncheon earlier in Milwaukee where the firm also has a plant.

"We're moving and we're going to continue to move," said Abernethy. "We are confident that we are going to grow, steadily and securely."

He said the firm's output of Ramblers in the first six months of the model years was a record 211,070, compared with 184,993 in the same period a year earlier. He said that in the quarter just completed, sales were over the 100,000 mark for the first time in a three-month period. He anticipated total domestic sales for the year of over 450,000 cars.

Dismiss Charges Against Rural Manawa Couple

WAUPACA — Charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor against Malvern Patri, 26, Manawa, and Mrs. Eileen May Stiebs, 33, route 1, Manawa, were dismissed Wednesday morning by County Judge Wendell McHenry. Edward R. Macklin, acting district attorney, told the court his investigation indicated the 16-year-old girl involved was a baby sitter at the home of one of the defendants.

He said when the three were enroute to the home of the other defendant, they stopped at a tavern in the Town of Royalton for a "couple of drinks." He told the court they did not stay in the tavern very long and that the girl was not offered an alcoholic beverage.

Births Elsewhere
